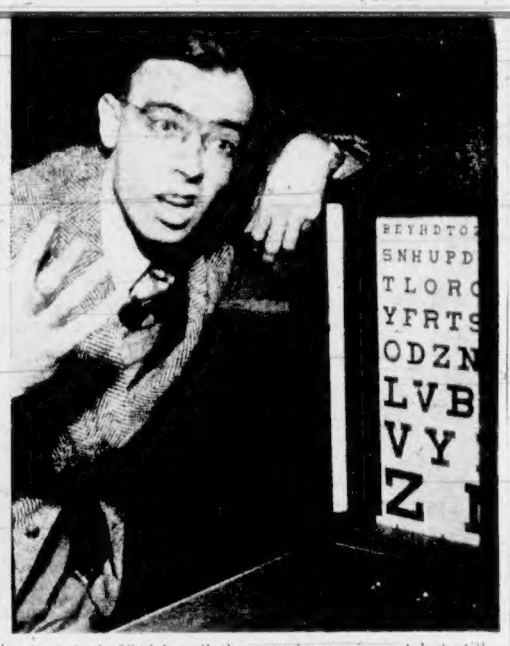
Reporter Gives All to Advance Science

"This is the life," chortles Daily Colonist reporter Bill Mayor as he rolls up his sleeves to start his night's work. His assignment: to get drunk for the advancement of science and a public test of the drunkometer.

After the drink's come the tests. Reporter Mayor is trundled out to stage of S. J. Willis Junior High School Auditorium where experts begin tests to see if he is too drunk to drive. Here, provincial examiner L. W. Merkley checks his eyes.



Slightly baffled by all the complex equipment but still dead game, reporter Mayor pauses to take stock of night's work, begins wondering how he's going to explain it all to his wife. Who wouldn't be a reporter?

Eden Gains Co-operation From Labor

Socialist Members Question U.S. Plans

LONDON, Feb. 5 (Reuters). — Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, shouting a defense of British and U.S. intentions in the Far East above the din of a hooting, turbulent House of Commons, today won renewed support from the Labor Party for the country's foreign policy.

But before his triumph, Eden had to answer a rapid cross-fire of questions from Labor members — some questioning the sincerity of the United States in its declarations for a peaceful settlement in Korea.

In the end, the socialist party presented a motion approving the foreign policy as a whole, but launching a personal attack on Prime Minister Churchill charging him with failure in interpreting British policy adequately to the United States.

The motion also aims to draw more information about the Washington talks from Churchill when he speaks in Wednesday's debate.

Opening the two-day debate today, Eden soon was harried by angry socialists who claimed Churchill had committed Britain as an ally in an "American war" against China.

Many left-wingers demanded a change in the policy they claimed was indicated in Churchill's address to Congress Jan. 17, calling for "prompt, resolute and effective action" if the Communists signed a Korean truce and then broke it.

PROMISE TO CONFER

Eden said the statement committed Britain to nothing more than a promise to confer with the U.S. if China should break a Korean truce agreement.

While Eden spoke today, Richard Crossman, left-wing Labor foreign policy spokesman, jumped up to quote a statement by U.S. Admiral William Fechteler that the Korean war would be carried to the Chinese coast if no armistice could be signed in Korea.

Eden said such sentiment did not represent the majority feeling in the United States.

When Crossman persisted with his questioning, the usually-reserved foreign secretary shouted angrily:

"Amid some quarters there is such anti-American prejudice that they will hardly listen to what I say."

Opposition Leader Attlee rose in the debate to charge that Churchill's speech in Washington had been "good salesmanship but I do not think it is good statesmanship."

Political Meeting Proposed by Reds

MUNSAN, Korea, Feb. 6 (Wednesday) (AP). — The Communists today proposed a high-level political conference within three months after the Korean armistice to negotiate withdrawal of all foreign troops and peaceful settlement of the Korean question.

North Korean Gen. Nam Il, chief Red truce delegate, submitted three major points on the final armistice issue of recommendations to the belligerent governments.

These included a vaguely-worded, catch-all recommendation that the governments negotiate "other questions related to peace in Korea."

Nam read a statement in connection with the Communist proposal. He tied in settlement of the Korean war with restoration of peace in the Orient.

The senior Red delegate said: "The peaceful settlement of the Korean question calls for a simultaneous solution of three other important problems related to the Korean question.

Nam submitted the Communist proposal to Vice-Admiral C. Turner Joy, chief allied truce delegate, at the first full plenary session of the armistice delegations since Dec. 4.

The Communist proposal did not suggest a site for the political conference. It called for a meeting within three months after a truce goes into effect. Five representatives of the United Nations on one side and five representatives of North Korea and Red China on the other would meet.

Pole Testifies Thousands Disappeared

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (CP). — Marion Gawlak, a former Polish army cadet now living at Port Colborne, Ont., testified before a Congressional committee today that thousands of Poles disappeared in 1940 from a Soviet prison camp of which he was an inmate.

A House of Representatives Committee is attempting to set the blame for the mass slaughter of more than 10,000 Polish soldiers in the Katyn Forest during the Second World War.

Gawlak testified that more than 4,600 Polish prisoners disappeared from Kozelsk prison camp between February and May, 1940.

He said pictures of bodies exhumed at Katyn Forest showed the slain Poles were wearing the "identical" military overcoats and boots they had donned just before disappearing from Kozelsk camp.

Johnson Unfit for Office, McPhillips Tells P.C.'s

"Premier Johnson is not fit to be premier of this province," said Albert De R. McPhillips, elected first vice-president of the Victoria Progressive Conservative Association last night at the annual meeting.

Mr. McPhillips announced recently he would seek nomination as a Progressive Conservative for Victoria in the coming provincial election.

Blasting at federal Liberals last night, Mr. McPhillips said "They are drunk with power."

He quoted figures on federal spending and said, "They are swilling down expense accounts like voracious hogs."

In the provincial picture, he said "Percy George was brought out of the pork barrel to pay a political debt."

"It's a hollow mockery in James Bay now," he said, and called the present provincial government "unconstitutional."

"The premier is going to lose his temper on the floor of the House and make a fool of himself, just like he did at the convention in Vancouver," he said.

Guinea Pig Pashes Tes'

By BILL MAYOR
As Mumbled to Brian Loughnan

At 6:05 p.m. lasht last night I started out without any supper.

Then the city editor gave me a tough assignment.

At 6.10 p.m. I was introduced to Detectives Gerald Presla and Sgt. Max Allison of Seattle Police Forsh Force, who were to conduct the official drunkometer tests with Dr. E. L. McNiven.

I was one of the guinea pigsh pigs, I mean, who applied to take the test. I began my examination at 6.15 p.m. and concluded it at 9 p.m. stanko.

There were four of us taking the test, up at S. J. Willis School.

First they gave us reaction tests to see how we made out sober. I was fine. Normal.

But they kept pouring us drinks. Tests got a little tougher I noticed. My reaction to picking up coins left-handed was no good.

After it was presumed I had drunk six ounces of alcohol, they said my reaction to the driving test was "tolerabobble tolerable," something like that.

Guinea pig — that's me — showed moderate breath, flushed face and polite language, Dr. McNiven said. Ever see a pig with a flushed face?

Well, with copsh pouring drinks all the time I wound up with 12 ounces of liquor in two hours and fifteen minutes.

Two Junior Chamber of Commersh pigs went through the tests in order to have their vision reduced, reaction much slower and depth reduced.

L. W. Merkley, chief examiner for the provincial government, directed what turned out to be quite a ballet.

After it was all over, and still carrying my 12 ounces like a pig like a gentleman, I mean I left the school and got in the car and chased the road down to the offish office.

Everybody laughed. Thought I was drunk. I guessh I'll find out when I get home.

P.S. The other members of the test will remain unidentified until their next-of-kin have been notified.

Scientists Defy Fire To Rescue Records

MELBOURNE, Australia, Feb. 5 (Reuters) — Scientists defying an order to flee the flame-ringed Mount Stromlo Observatory near Canberra today rescued valuable astronomic records from the raging bushfires.

But the flames did $220,000 damage in destroying sensitive astronomical equipment.

The observatory was encircled by fire when the interior ministry ordered everyone out. The firefighters left, but 20 observatory workers stayed to collect and pack records until the last minute.

Then a sudden thunderstorm doused the flaming building and left all 20 safe. But much of the building was destroyed.

Dr. Richard Woolley, Commonwealth astronomer, said the ruined workshops were among the finest of their kind. Stromlo's 40-inch telescope, radar equipment and the official quartz clock apparently were undamaged.

Only smoke hung over the mountain like a grey umbrella as the flames licked up the slopes. Most lines of communications were destroyed and reports from the settlement were conflicting.

Fires also reached to within 400 yards of the Government House grounds at Yarralumla, and the staff members were preparing to evacuate when the thunderstorm came.

U.S. Newsman Highly Praises 27th Brigade

OTTAWA, Feb. 5 (CP). — An American newspaperman has called Canada's 27th Brigade "the most cheering sight in the otherwise drab picture of western defense along the Rhine-Alps line."

Waldo Frank, in an article written in Hannover, says that although the Canadians have been in Germany only since December "they already present a better picture of a battle-ready fighting team than any other Allied combat unit in Europe with two exceptions — the U.S. 1st Infantry Division and the two brigades of the U.S. armored cavalry.

"This reporter was with the brigade's Highland battalion when it conducted its first field battle problem. Although most of the men had no more than six months' training before coming to Germany, they handled themselves like veterans," Frank wrote.

"This sort of performance is possible for a number of reasons, including a high esprit de corps . . . everybody in the brigade is a volunteer . . . all hands are well clothed, well fed and well paid."

Armed Forces May Defeat Split Pay Plan

OTTAWA, Feb. 5 (CP). — The armed forces have apparently won their fight against the controversial move to give part of every married serviceman's pay to his wife in a separate cheque.

Indications now are that the step, scheduled to go into effect for officers March 1, will be dropped or at least modified as a result of clamor among both officers and men against it.

The plan was that pay of married servicemen would be split in two with one cheque going to the husband, one to the wife. It was meant to protect wives whose husbands don't support them properly.

It provoked controversy throughout defense headquarters for days because the husbands considered it an intrusion on their private affairs and an unnecessary indignity.

The controversy has been taken under consideration by Defense Minister Claxton and his aides.

Teachers Lose Union Leader

SYDNEY, N.S., Feb. 5 (CP). — The leader of Cape Breton county's striking rural and village school teachers resigned tonight after the strikers voted to remain away from their desks until salary demands are met.

H. H. Wetmore, president of the rural and village local of the Nova Scotia Teachers' Union, presented his resignation at the meeting. An executive member said acceptance was deferred but Mr. Wetmore said he was through.

He declined further comment and others at the meeting also were silent. The meeting was closed to the public and press.

The vote to remain on strike was 91-29 with one teacher abstaining.

Stereos Reject Offer; Hold Original Demand

Victoria Press stereotypers yesterday rejected a new offer made by the company in an attempt to avoid a strike.

Victoria Press, publishers of The Colonist and Times, increased their offer by one cent an hour which would have brought the wage rate to $2.21 with nine paid statutory holidays, one more than Vancouver. The Stereotypers' and Electrotypers' Union, Local 88, remained adamant in its demand for the Vancouver wage scale of $2.25 per hour.

Yesterday's offer was the fourth made by the company since negotiations began. In the beginning the union asked for $2.25 an hour, an increase of 37 cents, and the company offered 22 cents. In subsequent concessions Victoria Press went up to 27 cents plus a cost of living clause, then agreed to accept a conciliation award of 32 cents.

Yesterday's offer of $2.21 would make the increase 33 cents, an increase of about $53.50 a month.

Including the ninth paid statutory holiday the difference between the company's latest offer and the union's original demand for the Vancouver scale is now only three cents. A paid holiday is considered the financial equivalent of one cent an hour on the wage scale.

Yesterday's meeting was held between both parties to the dispute and members of the Labor Relations Board. It was called at the request of the union.

At the suggestion of the Labor Relations Board further discussion was put off for 10 days. Allen T. Copland, the international union representative from Seattle who has attended recent meetings, has to leave the city for that period.

Share From Japan

Oyster Seed on Way to B.C.

British Columbia will receive 3,380 of the 58,600 cases of Japanese oyster seed due to reach this coast soon from the Far East.

It is presumed that the seed will be unloaded at Seattle, and B.C.'s share will be trucked or railroaded for distribution at Vancouver.

On hand at the international border to check the imported seed will be Dr. D. B. Quayle, marine biologist and officer in charge of the provincial fishery department's shellfish laboratory at Ladysmith.

"It is most important that the seed be checked . . . there are certain marine pests that, if once given a chance for establishment here, could almost wipe out the entire oyster industry," a fisheries official said.

The oyster seed coming to British Columbia has all been ordered by members of the Oyster Growers' Association. It will be sown in oyster beds along the lower east coast of Vancouver Island.

The Japanese seed will arrive in several shipments due on this coast between March 1 and April 15.

"Harvesting" of the shellfish will occur three to four years from now, depending on where they are planted. Food is more plentiful in some areas than others, report fisheries men, and upon that factor depends the rate of growth.

Flyer's Secret May Hurt Wife

VANCOUVER, Feb. 5 (CP). — Flight cadet Howard Geil, killed Friday in an R.C.A.F. crash at Gimli, Man., was married, but he kept it a secret because he "wanted to fly."

Now, his widow and young child may not be eligible for a pension.

"He would not have been accepted for training as a pilot if his marriage had been known," said an R.C.A.F. spokesman. "And if we had found out he was married he would have been released."

Pensions officials are checking his case. If a pension is approved, Mrs. Geil will get $140 a month for herself and baby daughter.

Mill Planned For Nelson

NELSON, B.C., Feb. 5 (CP). — A $20,000,000 pulp mill will be built here by a new company headed by Walter M. Leutold, pioneer Washington State lumberman.

The newly-formed Kootenay Forest Products Ltd. will be tied in with operations of Glacier Lumber Co. of Nelson.

Plans announced today call for a 200-ton-a-day mill and a forest tract of 400,000 acres, including 40,000 in the Lardeau Valley northeast of here.

Employment will be available for 800 to 1,000 workers with an additional 600 in the woods operations.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

A holy man pledged to eternal silence is running for a seat in India's parliament. He is bearded Prabhu Dutt Brahmachari, a Hindu Sadhu who has taken an oath never to speak.

His vow naturally prevents him from addressing political meetings, so friends speak for him. No doubt he sits mutely on the platform, beaming when the speaker points with pride and scowling when he views, with alarm.

The silent Brahmachari has gathered so much support in Prime Minister Nehru's own constituency, Allahabad, that the Congress party boys are worried. His main plank is opposition to the Hindu code bill which confers broad rights upon Hindu women. Its passage, he says in written messages, "will mean the ruin of Hindu culture and religion."

* * *

I don't know about the ruin of Hindu culture, but I feel that old Brahmachari has set a noble example that might well be heeded by politicians in this country.

The West gave India free speech and democracy. Perhaps she is now ready to repay us with a political gift of equal value: silence. I await the day when a wave of blessed silence sweeps out of the Orient and covers us like a blanket.

Only then will our ears, eroded by needless talk and false promises, be able to take a rest.

The technique of silence is not unknown to western statesmen. President Truman and his associates have said "no comment" so often that many Americans take it for his party's slogan.

To go from the ridiculous to the ridiculous, silence has been used to some effect by provincial politicians here. It comes in most handy when a member of one's own party makes a mistake.

Let a Liberal minister speak out of turn, and there is a hush in Liberal ranks that old Brahmachari himself would silently applaud. Let a Conservative minister drop some rash words, and there is a clamor loud enough to scare off the sacred monkeys of the temples of Benares. Some fine friendships have been broken that way.

* * *

Don't misunderstand me. I'm all in favor of free speech, the principle that permits me to keep writing this stuff without being forced to undergo a mental test. I would simply like to see more use made of silence in political campaigning, that's all.

The holy man's method would lessen nervous strain on both the candidate and the voters. Each dumbstruck candidate would have two men to speak for him. One would promise lower taxes and the other would promise more government spending.

At present, a candidate is obliged to make both these promises, and other promises which are just as contradictory, all by himself. As a result you sometimes see a politician being led away to the funny farm with a severe case of split personality.

Other difficulties in a politician's way would be removed by this plan. A politician who says something rash these days is forced to cry "Misquoted." When several hundred persons have heard the statement, and some of them have remembered it, this is hard to put over. It takes nerve.

But when politicians speak only by proxy, they can deny all their promises with a clear conscience.

Universal silence may in time become the rule. Sessions of the House will be conducted by mental telepathy. Legislators and voters will communicate with one another by sign language.

In British Columbia, the voters will scarcely notice the difference. No one in the government listens to them, anyway.

Less Party Loyalty in Next Election

In the next provincial election, people will vote more for individuals than for political parties, according to Herbert Anscomb, former minister of finance in the Coalition government.

Mr. Anscomb, addressing the annual meeting of the Victoria Federal Progressive Conservative Association, urged that a "high type of candidate" be nominated.

"We should not rush into convention," he said. "We ought to wait and see whether they hang on under this nomenclature of Coalition, which is just a straight Liberal government."

Both Liberals and Conservatives must fight the election on a free enterprise system, he said.

NO NEW INDUSTRY

"The people do not want a socialist system," he said, and he also maintained that no new industries would start under a socialist system in British Columbia.

"In the last 10 years," Mr. Anscomb said, "there has been an increase in British Columbia population of 40 per cent. Nobody knows how these people from the three prairie provinces think politically."

In the last decade, he said, nobody has been able to gauge the power of the provincial Liberal party, or the strength of the Conservatives or C.C.F., because of the Coalition system.

"But now Premier Johnson has broken Coalition for reasons I suppose he felt were proper."

PARTY UNITY

Commenting on unity in the Progressive Conservative party, he said, "When this situation developed and the premier asked for my resignation, everyone in our party said 'We march with you.'"

Victoria Progressive Conservatives re-elected Dems Hagar president of the association. Others elected were A. De B. Mc Phillips, first vice-president; Fred Jones, second vice-president; H. S. Benn, secretary, and Capt. Fred Higgins, treasurer.

Cruiser Quebec To Ship Cadets

Twelve Royal Canadian Sea Cadets will join the cruiser Quebec this spring for a cruise from Esquimalt to Halifax by way of the Panama Canal, the Navy League of Canada has announced.

Quebec, formerly Uganda, is expected to leave Esquimalt March 11 and arrive in Halifax April 18.

Private Schools Given Praise By Headmaster

Private schools have given leaders to the British Commonwealth of Nations, J. R. Timmis, headmaster of University School told North Victorian Kiwanians last night.

During a talk on the place of the private schools in the educational system, Mr. Timmis said they give a brand of instruction not found elsewhere.

They are not co-educational; their curricula are independently drawn up; religious instruction is given, and each student gets individual attention.

Qualities of leadership, such as honor of parents, courage and honesty, are instilled in them at an early age, Mr. Timmis said.

Drivers Fined For Statements

A city motorist who showed police as proof of financial responsibility a "pink slip" that was no longer in force following a minor accident was fined $50 in city police court yesterday.

Pleading guilty to making a false statement through lawyer David Sloan was Clyde H. Elford, 605 Trutch.

Also fined $50 was John Rutherford, 229 Island Highway, who pleaded guilty to making a false statement to police during the course of an investigation.

He was given time to pay the fine by Magistrate H. C. Hall who said he understood the accused was not in "flush" circumstances.

Robert H. Raynor, 1469 Thurlow, pleaded guilty to failing to obey a police officer who was directing traffic, and was fined $7.50.

Joseph Rilon, 846 Courtney, charged with careless driving, was fined $35.

TEL AVIV (Reuters) — The government payroll for the new state of Israel included about 20,000 permanent civil servants at the end of 1951. In addition there were 5,000 police and some temporary workers. The figure does not include teachers and troops.

U.N. Shelves Korea Case Prior to Adjournment

PARIS, Feb. 5 (CP).—The U.N. Assembly today over-rode Russian objections and shelved the Korean case until an armistice is reached on a rupture of the Manmunjom talks call for stronger U.N. action.

It then adjourned its three-month Paris session with most delegates expressing hope for an early truce. The next session is due in the autumn.

The Assembly voted 51 to 5 (Soviet bloc) to delay discussion of the political settlement in Korea until the military talks are successfully completed. The delegates authorized Secretary-General Trygve Lie to call the Assembly into an emergency special session in New York to consider more forceful action if the talks finally break down.

Perhaps the most important achievements of the sixth general Assembly were creation of a new disarmament commission for a fresh try at international control of atomic energy, and approval of a broader program for collective security, including regional pact forces such as N.A.T.O., whenever aggression occurs.

Other main achievements:

1. Birth of the State of Libya. Some countries pledged themselves to help this "child of the United Nations" through its first years.

2. Nearly 1,000,000 Palestine refugees have been promised relief for at least another year.

3. The United Nations has for the first time taken a part in the German problem by appointing a commission to supervise all-Germany elections.

4. The administering powers in colonial areas have been placed on the defensive as regards trust and non-self governing territories. The pressure from smaller nations has been to bring the living conditions of subject peoples under closer international scrutiny.

Princess Pats Beat Van Doos In Hockey Game, Korean Style

WITH THE CANADIAN FORCES IN KOREA, Feb. 5 (INS).—It was a combination of football, golf and hockey that Canadians played in their brand new open air stadium, "Imjin Gardens" in Korea today.

Despite rough ice and extremely cold temperatures the team of the First Princess Pat Canadian Light Infantry defeated their comrades-in-arms, the Royal 22nd Regiment, 5-0.

Brig. J. M. Rockingham, of Vancouver, brigade commander, dropped the puck for the faceoff and just barely edged out of the way as both teams closed in on their centres. It was a hammer-and-tongs game all the way with both sides stopping only for penalties and between period rests.

The rough surfaced rink was built by Canadian engineers on a portion of the Imjin River. They marked off the area with a three-foot wall of sandbags.

A new hockey style, for Korea at least, has been developed. Because the puck refused to slide on the rough ice the players adopted a short chopping golf swing which proved most effective.

Viscount Alexander May Need New Name

LONDON, Feb. 5 (CP).—Viscount Alexander may choose a new title excluding his surname when his earldom is conferred, it was suggested today.

A Daily Telegraph columnist noted that if the retiring Governor-General of Canada retains the family name the possibilities for confusion may be "constant and embarrassing."

In the House of Commons Monday, Labor member Emrys Hughes jocularly drew attention to the fact that when the retiring Governor-General returns to Britain there will be two Lord Alexanders, and "can it be that the wrong Alexander has been appointed?"

The other Alexander is Viscount Alexander of Hillsborough, who served the Labor government as minister of defense from 1947 to 1950. Oddly, it is to take up the appointment of minister of defense that Viscount Alexander of Tunis is returning to Britain.

Another possibility of confusion arises in that the second title of the Fifth Earl of Caledon, brother of the Lord Alexander now in Canada, is—take a deep breath—Viscount Alexander.

The Daily Telegraph also has a warning for Shane Alexander, son of the retiring Governor-General. Reports from Ottawa have suggested Shane may be called Baron Alexander of Rideau, after the Governor-General's residence in Ottawa.

Better not mix up that with "Rideau de Fer," warns the Telegraph with tongue in cheek. The phrase is French for "Iron Curtain."

Oddities

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Feb. 5 (AP).—Pretty Betty Postema, 22, has been using a wheel chair for six years. She appeared to have been hopelessly paralyzed as the result of a fall.

But now, because of a second fall, she is able to walk again.

Miss Postema first fell when she was in high school. She became paralyzed from the waist down, but completed her education and became a secretary at Calvin College.

Last April she pitched from her wheel chair on the steps of a college building and fell on her spine.

"Life just seemed to flow into my legs," she said. "The more I exercised the stronger they got."

Surgeons expressed belief the second tumble may have freed adhesions.

Truman Agrees To Test

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP).—President Truman suddenly shifted tactics today and agreed to a "popularity" test against Senator Estes Kefauver in the New Hampshire primary March 11.

But the President still kept alive the No. 1 political guessing game in the United States on the question: Is he, or isn't he going to seek re-election?

He took pains to note that the New Hampshire contest is "purely advisory" and does not bind delegates to cast their votes for any particular candidate at the Democratic nominating convention in July. In drawing that distinction, Truman clearly left the way open for himself to step aside later, if he desires, and throw his support to another candidate.

Victims Identified

CARMAN, Man., Feb. 5 (CP).—Three steel workers, trapped on a tottering radio tower, were killed early today when the 570-foot mast snapped in two, broke clear of its moorings and slammed to earth. The men were replacing damage done when an R.C.A.F. plane rammed the tower yesterday, killing all three airmen aboard.

Tower crash victims were Ronnie Erickson, 19, of Tyndall, Man.; Walter Burtnyk, 28, of Winnipeg, and Jake Dyck of the Grunthal district.

Names of the victims of the air plane crash were released today. They were FO. Charles Chow-Leong, 29, of Lethbridge, Alta.; Acting Pilot Officer Peter Frederick Harvey, 20, of Woodlands, Isleham, Cambridgeshire, England, and Acting Pilot Officer Edward Scanlan, 18, of Chiswick, London W4, England.

Working in the glare of a searchlight, the steel workers made a midnight ascent inside the three-sided tower, belonging to the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation's Manitoba station, CBW.

Minutes later, as a stiff wind blew up, the light on the mast-head swayed, there was a loud grinding noise and a 250-foot top section crashed to the frozen earth. The remainder of the 30-ton steel structure resembling a pencil standing on its point snapped at the base, swayed drunkenly, and fell at right angles to the first section.

Latvian Flees Reds

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 5 (AP).—Swedish police said a 21-year-old Latvian refugee told them tonight he fled from the Soviet embassy in panic when he suddenly changed his mind about returning to his homeland.

Aivars Ozolinch, husky young lumberman, earlier today raced from the embassy into a Swedish engineering shop shouting: "Help! The Russians are after me. Call the police."

The police came and took him to headquarters for questioning. An official police announcement gave these details:

Ozolinch had gone to the embassy of his own volition after making inquiries to Soviet consular officials about repatriation to Latvia, now a part of the Soviet Union.

He changed his mind about going home at the last moment, and only managed to make his way out of the consular premises after a violent row.

Police were told by the Soviet embassy that there had been no fighting.

Pennsylvania Seaworthy

SEATTLE, Feb. 5 (AP).—Reports submitted to a marine board of inquiry today testified to the proper stowing of cargo on the freighter Pennsylvania before it left Seattle Jan. 5 on its ill-fated voyage.

The ship sank in the north Pacific with the loss of 46 lives.

The ship also was listed as being in proper condition.

Reports of the Coast Guard, a marine insurance surveyor and a Vancouver port warden were submitted to the board.

Weather reports of high winds and 48-foot waves also were put into the official record.

The records showed the ship had taken on 5,875 long tons of feed barley at Vancouver, then loaded 2,098 tons of general army cargo below deck in Seattle. Two dump trucks and 18 army trailers were secured to the deck.

One overturned lifeboat was all that was found. Its last radio message said the crew was abandoning ship.

Baby Racket Charged

MONTREAL, Feb. 5 (CP).—Police investigation into an alleged racket involving sale of illegitimate babies to U.S. residents reached criminal court today with arraignment of two men.

One is a Montreal lawyer and the other a cigarette case maker. They were charged with depriving an unmarried mother of her children. It was unofficially reported thhe babies are twins.

Police said they also expect the arrest shortly of at least one physician, along with two women and another man, and that the racket is widespread, with price tags of as much as $5,000 for a baby.

Those arraigned today were identified as Herman Buller, 31-year-old member of the Montreal bar, and Bill Dutka, 34, a construction worker, who also lives in Montreal.

The Crown agreed to liberation of Buller on parole and bail of $950 for Dutka.

The charges were laid under an article in the Criminal Code. Buller and Dutka are accused of intent to deprive the mother of her children under the age of 14 and of possssing and detaining the children.

The offense is alleged to have occurred about May 20, 1951.

Ex-Nazi Plans to Return

OTTAWA, Feb. 5 (CP).—Otto Strasser says he's going back to Germany but officials here are at a loss to know how Hitler's one-time political henchmate can re-enter his homeland without travel credentials or a German passport.

The 55-year-old German Nationalist, who linked up with Nazism to help Hitler to power and later fled, is reported to have said in an interview in Montreal Monday night that he has won a six-year fight to leave Canada and return to Germany. He now lives in Nova Scotia.

There, he said, he will form a new political party to oppose Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, whom he described as a "German quisling."

Diplomatic officials here said Strasser came to Canada as a political refugee in 1941 and as such was free to leave Canada whenever he chose. They hinted that Canada would not be too unhappy if he decided to go.

However, the German government has indicated it isn't too keen about having him back. When he fled Germany, Hitler stripped him of German citizenship and the German government considered him a stateless person requiring a passport to get back.

German embassy officials here emphasized that no passport has been issued to him.

HELPING FAMILY MEN protect their loved ones...

For sixty years, the Great-West Life has been helping family men provide financial protection for their loved ones. Through the Company's services, continued income can be assured even though death, disability, or old age stops the normal flow of income to the family.

The unique relationship between a policyholder and the company imposes upon the Great-West Life a high public trust. That this trust has been kept faithfully and well is revealed in the record of growth and service reported at the Great-West Life's sixtieth Annual Meeting.

Ever-growing public confidence in the Company is attested by the fact that its representatives arranged a record amount of new life insurance and annuities for over 50,000 people during the year. The figures which appear below indicate the extent of the Company's responsibility to its 515,000 policyholders.

Even Solomon Dodged It

THE storm which many foresaw would follow the week-old announcement by the defense department that it proposed after March 1 to divide a serviceman's pay into about two equal portions and give one part arbitrarily to his wife has been gathering force across Canada ever since. From army and air force messes, commissioned and otherwise, have gone up sturdy, if muffled, protests with some plain speaking on the rights of a man in his own home. The result of all this objection is now beginning to find its way to Ottawa; and something at least resembling a flag of truce has been run up by the defense department, where it is said Mr. Claxton has been inundated by service remonstrances against the plan.

It was a ridiculous suggestion in the first place, whoever fathered it. If the defense department had the right to do that it would become more powerful in a serviceman's home than the man himself. It, and not he, would decide the family budget, the distribution of his income, and of necessity also the ultimate outgo. The feeble excuse given for the proposal—that some men did not remit sufficient funds to their homes—should have warned the defense department that it was treading on personal relations, entirely beyond its scope. There were also legal doubts, such as the inherent right of any man who earns his pay to dispose of it as he may see fit. We said at the time that the proposal smacked of bureaucracy run riot. So the country-wide protest did not surprise us. What did, and does, is the fact that the government ever could have entertained such a crackpot idea seriously.

As matters stand, Defense Minister Claxton had better take it back. If this was a trial balloon, it has been badly punctured. Not only in service circles where it would begin, but also in civilian life where it might soon follow, this put-and-take plan would be an entirely unwarranted invasion of individual rights—a government declaration in fact that it would act as referee in the home. No government from the time of King Solomon ever knew enough for that, or ever will.

Too Few Men for the Job

THE increasing number of burglaries and other offenses under cover of darkness in Victoria should be sufficient proof, if any more were needed, of the inadequacy of the city's night watch. This is a reflection not on the individual policemen on night duty, who appear to be doing their job efficiently, but on a system which assigns nocturnal protection to a force far too small for the area it has to patrol.

Roving juveniles seem able to break into and ransack dwellings and business premises almost at will, because a policeman responsible for a beat big enough for two or three can't be everywhere at once. Good detective work ultimately brings most of these young hoodlums to book, but that is small satisfaction to the people whose places have been robbed. No sooner have the courts disposed of those responsible for one series of offenses than others step in take their place. The upshot, aside from losses and annoyance to property-owners, is that the detective force is loaded with investigations which would not be necessary if the deterrent sight of uniforms were more common at night.

Whether this situation could be improved by a reorganization of duties within the present force to make more men available for night patrols, or whether the force needs to be expanded as the chief of police asserts, it is for the commissioners to decide. Early action one way or the other is required, however, for householders and merchants should not have to put up with this sort of thing much longer. If an increase in the total strength of the force is shown to be the only practical solution it will be no use for anyone to say the city can't afford the price. Adequate protection of the persons and property of taxpayers must take precedence over everything else.

How Short the Memories

AWAY down in the frozen wastes of Antarctica a British supply ship put men ashore to re-establish a survey base. They were forced to withdraw by shots from an Argentine naval vessel. Argentina now admits it was an error and a British frigate has gone cruising to see the error is not repeated.

A minor episode, but yet one of significance. It reflects the changed days of British power and influence. A few decades ago no Argentine ship would have dared to halt by gunfire a British expedition of any kind. In these postwar years an open season seems to have been declared with all and sundry taking potshots, both verbal and military, at the Old Land.

How short are memories. For nearly a century it was British power and justice that kept the seas inviolate for the very nations that seek now to exploit her present difficulties, including Argentina. It was the outpouring of British wealth and human sacrifice in two world wars, an effort far outstripping any other in the western world, that brought her to current economic and therefore human distress.

In saving herself in these two wars she was the hard core whose resistance saved all others. Without Britain the rest of the world could not have fought through to victory, might even still be fighting that unlamented dictator Hitler. Yet now in her temporary weakness some of those she saved would take advantage and regard her as prey.

Including Argentina. This is the nation whose dictator-president only the other day openly gloated over British misfortunes. He would double the price of the meat Britons need so badly. "You have hunger and we have meat, and we will see who can last the longer," he said.

Well, we shall see. The British lion may be crippled but it is not yet down and out. Come a day and it may stride again in renewed strength and vigor—long after this Argentine dictator has disappeared.

WRONG WAY AROUND

Sir,—The barring of Paul Robeson and Vincent Hallinan from entering into Canada should stimulate discussion on the J. G. Diefenbaker motion coming before the next House calling on Parliament to accept the principle of a bill of rights.

Article 11 of the U.N. Covenant on Human Rights states: ". . . Anyone shall be free to leave any country, including his own. Anyone is free to return to the country of which he is a national."

Article 16 states: "Everyone has the right to freedom of thought, conscience and religion . . ."

WILLIAM MITCHELL.
89 South Holdom Avenue, Vancouver, B.C.

Editor's note: On the contrary, Messrs. Robeson and Hallinan were stopped from leaving the United States by American action, and Canada had nothing to do with that.

FLUORIDATION

Sir,—The following information taken from a good encyclopedia may be of interest to property owners in the Greater Victoria area served by the city water supply. It concerns the proposed addition to the domestic supply of fluoride, or fluorine, for the purpose it is said of preventing tooth decay:

"Flourine: Combines with silicon and metals, therefore it attacks the tube in which the experiment is performed. It decomposes water, forming hydro-fluoric acid.

"Fluoride: A compound of fluorine with an element or radical. It is absorbed by water, forming silico fluoric acid, and gelatinous silica is deposited. The tube should dip into mercury to prevent it being blocked up."

Horticulturists who have used the chemical in poisonous sprays know that all metal parts of machines must be carefully cleaned with pure water to avoid rapid deterioration.

It might be wise for the city council to make quite clear to the citizens the liability of the corporation for damage to pipes, radiators, boilers, etc., due to the deliberate placing in the water supply chemicals known to be destructive to metals. It is unlikely that owners of buildings who are forced into early renewal of water systems will all be so simple as to accept the result of misguided zeal or official ignorance as an act of God.

A TIMELY COMMENT

Sir,—Many a modern government that has been persuaded to change the name of its country or give it a new political title has suddenly, like a chameleon, changed its own color much to the surprise and later to the sorrow of those whose government it was. Familiar shades of green denoting safety then become a forbidding red, old friends are called enemies, and the gulf between the government and the governed grows ever wider until at last comes the inevitable crash.

No government worthy of the term desires this to happen, but happen it does, and apparently the reason it happens is because the electorate fails to hold on to its own government. That is, those chiefly concerned do not take the trouble to tell their government what they want, whereas their enemies do and apply plenty of pressure and worldwide influence to back it up.

Canadians who take lightly the attempts of any group, no matter how small, to change the title of this country and to sever further our ties with the United Kingdom would do well to examine the attitudes of some of the men who in recent years have been most active in world affairs . . .

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

MORE than once our sports editor has said to me that the Olympic Games should be open to all comers and not reserved for amateur competition. His reasons he puts succinctly: one, a world meet should allow the best athletes in the world to compete; two, the amateurism of the Olympics is suspect.

If Mr. Tang should read this column he will find powerful support for his viewpoint, and from no less a person than Montgomery of Alamein.

I confess I never thought of the renowned Monty as taking much interest in anything but soldiering, but in the London Times last week was a letter on the subject from the famous field marshal, written from Switzerland in his capacity as president of the Kandahar Ski Club.

As you will see, Lord Montgomery is a realist. He writes:

* * *

"I understand there has been a certain difference of opinion on the Olympic Committee as to the admission of Soviet Russia and the Communist States to the Olympic Games. The minority which opposed the admission based their arguments on two main points: (a) Amateurism is unknown in Communist States; (b) the Communist outlook on sport is inconsistent with the ideals of the Olympic Games.

"These points are both probably very true. In a Communist State every adult is employed by the State; an athlete is as much a professional as a school teacher or a doctor or a commissar. True amateurism depends on a free Press in which scandals can be ventilated and on the right to protest against infringement of the rules. Neither of these conditions prevails in Russia. Every factory has its paid teams who do no work in the factory and who receive special rations. Whether the Olympic Games should or should not be amateur is a question of opinion. That they have ceased to be amateur is a question of fact.

* * *

"We cannot contend with two different types of amateurism, eastern and western. It is my view that the Olympic Committee acted rightly in admitting Russia to the Games: we must neglect no step that will help to bring east and west together. But the committee should now draw the logical conclusion from that decision and should make all events 'open' i.e., open to amateurs and professionals.

"As regards skiing, I am glad to say that the Olympic Committee have already taken the first step towards adjusting their rules to the demands of honesty by admitting ski teachers. . . . It would be absurd that our team, who are amateurs, should not be able to compete against the world's best professionals, or rather against those who in any sport but skiing, and under any rules but the Olympic, would be regarded as professionals. It would be equally absurd to exclude the Alpine ski teachers and to admit to the winter or summer games the State-paid professional athletes of Russia."

* * *

It was a foregone conclusion that if Russia came into the Olympics a hubbub would develop. (Before the summer is over she is liable to be complaining to the U.N. if her athletes don't win all the events.) But Soviet Russia altogether apart, there is lots to be said for the joint viewpoint of Lord Montgomery and Mr. Tang.

If amateurs the world over were as sheer pure as they are supposed to be then a closed sports shop would stand on respectable feet. As it happens Olympics don't. On this point Monty adds:

"We should now face practical facts, and be sensible and honest. Ways and means will always be found to enter camouflaged professionals in events which attract immense publicity and which consequently are regarded as barometers of national prestige. The only sound course is, therefore, to make the Olympic Games 'open events' in all respects, and let all compete against each other on the field of sport."

I doubt, though, that even the victor of Alamein will persuade Olympic moguls to be as logical as himself. Shamateurism has too big a hold on the sports world of today—and I'm not now thinking of Russia.

Africa's Problems in Racial Relations

By SIR GODFREY HUGGINS

The writer, prime minister of the British self-governing colony of Southern Rhodesia since 1933, went there from England as a young general practitioner and surgeon in 1911. He served as a doctor in England, Malta and France in the First World War. He has been a member of the legislative assembly since it was established in 1923.

IT is difficult for people who never lived for some considerable time in Africa to understand the human problems there. There are a few people in Britain who thrive on misrepresenting the attitude of the European: they talk of color prejudice as if it was a European vice, whereas it is not limited to any one color.

Black, brown, and yellow people all exhibit color prejudice in various degrees. It will be one of the last of human prejudices to go, before all the peoples of the world are united as one. Unless this is realized, all plans entailing co-operation among different colors must fail.

The chief duty of the European natives of Southern Rhodesia and European immigrants—apart from earning their own living—is the advancement of the African native to a civilized way of life. In the process of leading the African native from barbarism to civilization, certain problems arise, not known in the United Kingdom.

Rhodesians believe that the first step is to improve economic and social conditions, then to encourage participation in the politics of the central government. Arrangements in Southern Rhodesia must be regarded as temporary.

It would be quite unworkable to have no differential legislation at this stage, because of the gulf existing between the cultural standards of the Europeans and an African population, for the most part still uncivilized, who only 60 years ago had no written language, and did not know the use of the wheel.

* * *

Plans for developing the colony, making the best use of all its human material, can be made only for a very limited period, seeing that as the primitive inhabitants develop and they are doing so fast we are confronted with a rapidly changing set of circumstances. Policy, which perforce at this stage is largely experimental, will have to be adjusted accordingly. If the native Africans in the mass can be brought to a Western civilized standard, it will be done rapidly.

We do not pretend that there is any equality of partnership at present, but the African native has joined the firm, and has his foot on the lower rungs of the ladder; he will have to learn the wisdom of trying to help himself, for the European cannot carry the whole burden.

The African natives are being absorbed into industry. There is no fixed standard of efficiency, but they are doing well, and beginning to earn wages that 40 years ago we considered they never could possibly want, their conception of advancement being, in those days, limited to the acquisition of more cattle, or more wives.

In the European townships, we have a conciliation act which operates in the major industries. This act provides machinery for settling labor disputes, and insists on equal pay for equal work, regardless of color.

This measure has achieved both its aims. The fear of the European artisan that he would lose his job to cheap African labor has been removed. A direct result is improved race relations.

* * *

Furthermore, the African native who is skilled or semi-skilled is free to sell his labor at any price he likes, to ask. As the African artisan improves, he will justify the standard wage, and the part of the act which deals with labor disputes will be more important.

As the African advances, he will be exempt from differential laws such as the pass laws, which exist in the European areas. Certain classes already are exempt.

On the political side, the African natives, since the grant of the constitution in 1923, have a right to obtain a vote on the common roll. It is true that they have to earn it, but it is not taking the centuries that it did in England to achieve the vote. Already there are sufficient African voters to determine the result of an election in some constituencies.

* * *

If the races occupying Central Africa are to develop fully the vast latent resources of this area, it seems elementary that they should work together. This can be done only if they share the same political institutions.

Any other system must keep the races apart to the extent of having no common purpose except to keep the other side out—in more senses than one. There can be no partnership unless the races share in party government, and any system that provides different methods of electing representatives for Europeans and Africans must stultify progress toward partnership.

It may be asked what will happen when the Africans on the voters' roll are sufficiently numerous to out-vote the Europeans. That is a long way off, and the method of dealing with the situation would depend upon circumstances at the time. One most hopeful prospect is that, sharing in our political institutions, the African will take part in party politics, and not in color politics.

On the social side, there is no mixing, save in exceptional circumstances. The Africans are just as opposed to mixed marriages as are the Europeans in Southern Rhodesia.

It is my belief that social contact between people of such widely separated cultural levels is of no real benefit to either party. There are a few exceptions, but the development of race relations on the social level must come naturally, with time. It cannot be forced by any legislative action.

* * *

Meanwhile, we place greater emphasis on the more immediate problem of improving the health and general living standards of the indigenous people, believing that this is a prerequisite of active participation in the government of the country.

An exact definition of partnership is difficult, if not dangerous, but at least is can be said that it is based on the total rejection of racial domination or suppression by either black or white inhabitants of this country. It is sincerely accepted that both races are indispensable to one another, and that each must, by its conduct, individually and collectively earn the confidence and good will of the other.

We admit frankly that for the foreseeable future the government of Southern Rhodesia must remain in the hands of the European, who by training, background and experience is the only possible choice, but we do say to the African: "Here is your chance to prove your worth, and then join in the government of your country."

The only thing we must avoid at all costs is a policy which will drive the two races permanently into separate camps, where blood, and not reason, is the mainspring of political thought and action.

Sleep for Longevity

(From The Globe and Mail, Toronto)

EVERY newspaper reader knows that old people give different recipes for long life. One centenarian says that the secret is to take plenty of exercise and abstain from drink and tobacco. Another explains that his own method was to smoke strong cigars, drink beer and never move a muscle unnecessarily.

Now Dr. Harry J. Johnston, of New York, has discovered that there is one thing all the oldsters have in common. They may be as different in their habits as an archbishop and a bookmaker, but they have all taken plenty of sleep. Dr. Johnston has come up with this interesting conclusion after questioning thousands of men and women between the ages of 70 and 90. One and all, they made a practice of going to bed early or, alternatively, getting up late.

The fascinating thing about Dr. Johnston's research is that, like so many painstaking psychological inquiries, it confirms what has been generally known for centuries. Long, long ago man found out that he could have a short life and a gay one or, if he preferred, a long life and a sedate one. He could burn his candle at both ends, in which case it gave a lovely light, or he could burn it at one end and make it last. Proverbs along this line are doubtless to be found in Sanskrit and chipped on the caves of ancient Asia.

Still, it is nice to have modern science firmly establish the proposition that one can spin out life by taking life easy. Now perhaps people will believe it.

Fun, Fact and Fiction

As to what goes on in Korea, we find it hard to say, being in this respect no wiser than the Korean who told the inquirer, "I'm a stranger here myself."

If it's true, as one writer says, that traffic congestion has become a problem in Moscow, imagine what it will be like when Russia invents the internal combustion engine.

Idle wonder: Did anyone ever build himself a house from the floor plan on the back of a 25-cent murder mystery?

The Packsack

OF GREGORY CLARK

SOME of the howling, groaning, wailing and hollering that comes over the radio these days in the guise of popular music must raise for many of us the question: with whom is it popular?

It is not the vocal efforts alone. The instrumental items sound less like music to us old codgers than the noise we make at old boys' reunions, when we are all handed dish pans, wooden spoons, paper horns and those rattles you whirl around, and are told to whoop her up.

I am credibly informed by the younger generation that all this radio rumpus is not merely music, but that a widespread cult is founded on it; and the practitioners of it are regarded not merely as musicians, but as artists. Those of us whose musical standards were formed in pre-radio days (when most of the singing we heard was in church, with only occasional visits to the vaudeville and musical comedy theatres and a much more occasional musical recital) find the going pretty heavy in this modern popular music.

In my case, I don't sing, because I know I can't sing. But in this new deal for music—any number of people who can't sing not only do sing, but win fame at it. The other day, I was up in my bedroom, sorting through some dresser drawers, and I found an old cardboard box which contained some knitted khaki neckties, khaki handkerchiefs, detachable colors for khaki shirts, regimental buttons and other relics not of the late war, but of the one before that: the 1914-18 war, which is the one away back next to the Boer War.

Sentimentally moved by these souvenirs of times long past, I started to sing some of the old songs, "Keep Your Head Down, Allyman!", "Far, Far From Ypres," and "Oh, Mrs. Jones, I Love Your Daughter", and after I finished singing, I experimented in front of my mirror with a few commands, given at the top of my lungs, as I used to when I was an adjutant.

When I came down stairs, my children enquired casually: "Have you got a radio going in your room?"

Looking Back

Through Colonist Files

25 YEARS AGO — Ward Three, Saanich, has fallen into line with other farming wards in protest against the inequalities of taxation and approval of action to secure secession from the inner wards.

50 YEARS AGO — The Hudson's Bay Company has given a contract to the Victoria Machinery Depot to build a modern sternwheel steamer with novel features which will make it the finest-equipped of its class on this coast.

85 YEARS AGO — The superintendent of education has paid for a supply of coal for use in the schools, out of his own pocket. Had he not come forward thus liberally, the institutions must have closed.

Tax Talks Taken Over By Premier

OTTAWA, Feb. 5 (CP)—Premier Byron Johnson of British Columbia today was in the capital discussing his province's tax agreement with the federal government.

The two governments have settled the major points of their agreement, and an aide said Mr. Johnson is cleaning up details in preparation for the introduction of legislation at the B.C. legislature session opening Feb. 19.

The premier took over the negotiations after the recent break-up of B.C. coalition government. Finance Minister Herbert Anscomb, a Progressive Conservative, was forced from the government by the premier. Reason given by the premier was that he had announced details of the tax agreement before reporting to cabinet on them.

Alcohol Charge Costs Driver Fine of $250

A motorist who collided with the rear of a tow truck attending an accident near Colwood Corner early Sunday morning has been fined $250 for driving while his ability to do so was impaired by alcohol.

William Wolloscuk, 2121 Seaward, appeared in provincial police court yesterday to plead guilty to the charge.

Robert Diamond, 2633 Wark, pleaded guilty to dangerous driving and was fined $35 by Magistrate A. I. Thomas.

For failing to remain at the scene of an accident, Harry Scheits, 116 Gorge Road East, was fined $50 and had his drivers' license suspended for six months.

Louis West, Station Hotel, received a three-month suspended sentence for supplying liquor to an Indian and was charged $5 costs.

A one-month suspended sentence was handed down to Mrs. Moses Sam, Songhees Indian Reserve, for being in possession of an intoxicant off the reserve. Mrs. Lila Dick, also from the reserve, received the same sentence for a similar offense.

JOINT TRIBUTE

The altar stone on which Canada's "Book of Remembrance" listing war dead rests at Ottawa was presented by the British government.

Exports of Produce Decrease in Value

Canada exported fresh fruits and vegetables with a shipping value of $18,021,000 during the first 10 months of 1951.

The figure was $2,797,000 less than in the same period of 1950, the Canadian Fruit Wholesalers' Association was told yesterday by secretary-treasurer L. F. Burrows of Ottawa.

The association is in convention in Victoria.

In 10 months of 1951, imports of fresh fruits and vegetables increased $2,884,000 over the same 1950 period to a shipping value of $72,425,000. Largest import item was bananas, valued at more than $17,000,000.

The industry as a whole likely will be confronted with higher overhead for many years. Cost of doing business is higher now than at any time in history, the secretary reported.

OTTAWA CRITICIZED

The federal government was criticized also in the report for "moving beyond its traditional field of strictly national affairs."

"It has taken a large degree of responsibility for control of, and initiative in individual and local affairs," it was declared.

The report said that trade associations are essential to present the views and opinions of business, over which the federal government is asserting jurisdiction.

Walter Hebert, general manager of the Yakima Fruit Growers' Association, warned that United States apple production has declined 17 per cent in 20 years, despite a population increase.

TRAINING PROJECT

During the first six months of 1951, 971 retailers and 113 wholesale personnel were trained at six schools across Canada by the Canadian Fruit and Vegetable Merchandising Institute.

The figures were given in the report yesterday of L. F. Burrows, Ottawa, secretary-treasurer of the association.

A Victoria school trained 76 persons. The merchandising institute is attempting to improve distribution through retail stores. During 1950 the institute had trained 2,200 retailers and more than 500 wholesale employees in 15 schools.

Proposed Annuity Boost Rapped by Insurance Man

The labor department's hope to have the maximum amount of a Canadian government annuity raised from $1,200 to $2,400 was criticized by R. Leighton Foster, general counsel of the Canadian Life Insurance Officers' Association in Victoria yesterday.

Addressing members of the Victoria and Island Life Underwriters' Association, Mr. Foster said that this was another example of government interference with private business. He said that under the 1908 Annuities Act, the entire cost of the administration of government annuities has always been borne by the taxpayers.

FEW POLICIES

"Were it not for the fact that the government annuity contracts provided no cash values and were limited to $1,200, the life insurance companies would not only have sold very few annuities but they would have sold few life insurance policies providing retirement income for the policy holder," he said.

If the bill to double the annuity maximum to $2,400 is re-introduced in the House at the next session, it would be fatal to the life insurance companies, he said.

"It is axiomatic that no private business can survive if the government offers at less than cost the identical service as that of a private firm," he continued.

He said no government outside of Canada undertook to sell voluntary annuities below cost.

Late Rally Slows Dip In Prices

TORONTO, Feb. 5 (CP)—Investors re-entered the stock market strongly late today and added support that steadily toned back declining prices.

Industrials and western oils made the strongest recovery as each recaptured about one-third of their losses.

Western oil losses ranged from pennies to about 25 cents. Anglo-Canadian, Canadian Collieries, Central Explorers, National Petroleum, New British Dominions, Trans-Empire and Security Free traded lower. Calgary and Edmonton drew interest as it overcame a 75-cent drop in the last few minutes to close unchanged.

In base metals Chromium, East Sullivan, International Nickel, Mindamar, Normetal, Pend Oreille, Sherritt-Gordon and Barvue slipped.

Senior golds were weak as Lake Shore, Lamaque, McIntyre and Teck-Hughes eased. Secondary issues posted a majority of penny declines.

Active Utilities

MONTREAL, Feb. 5 (CP)—Stock prices closed lower despite two widely separated rally attempts.

Senior oils figured prominently in the lower trend. Papers, senior metals, steels, carriers, banks and beverages finished lower.

Utilities were mixed from the opening. Miscellaneous industrials recovered from early weakness to balance gains and losses at the end.

Aluminium touched 120¾, earlier before closing at 121¼, down 2¼ points. McColl-Frontenac was off 1½ points at a new low of 42, while Royalite lost 1¼ points at 16¾. Algoma Steel was down one point at 54 at one time, but finished at 54¼.

International Utilities was actively traded and closed at a new high of 28⅞, up one point. Dominion Bridge was up one at 81.

In mines Cassiar Asbestos, Hollinger and Steep Rock were lower. Home Oil and Western Homestead were among losers in western oils.

Lumbers Bought

VANCOUVER, Feb. 5—All sections finished lower on the day although the afternoon session saw some upward swing from the lowest.

In oils Canadian Atlantic gained 10 cents, while Gas Exploration added 4 cents. Others, including Britalta, Calmont, Central Leduc, Continental, Long Island and Superior were lower.

Estella was a bright feature among mines gaining 7 cents at 2.38, while Silver Ridge was active for a single cent advance at .30.

Some strong buying came for Canadian Western Lumber which advanced ⅛ to 10¼, but Alberta Distillers declined 10 cents to 2.80.

Steels Fare Best

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 (AP)—A decline continued today in the stock market for the second straight session but with abated pressure.

At the bottom of the decline, considerable buying was uncovered in all areas of the market.

Weakness generally was attributed to the Panmunjom armistice talks in Korea. That was the case when the market broke rather sharply Monday.

The same thing held true today with the Communists arousing hopes for some kind of settlement when they promised to disclose their plans.

Steels and motors made the best showing, holding firmly against the decline throughout the day. U.S. Steel, for example, lost only ⅛ at 40¾, while General Motors gained ⅛ at 51⅛ and Chrysler ⅜ at 69⅜.

German Loans Fall

LONDON, Feb. 5 (Reuters)—There were sharp movements in German loans on the stock exchange today. Prices of the government issues fell by around 3 points.

Elsewhere active interest was small and produced a few irregular movements. The stock markets are passing through a period of stagnation pending budget day, March 4, and there exists a marked reluctance to extend commitments in home stocks.

A moderate investment demand gave firmness to oils and to Anglo-Iranians in particular.

British, Arab Leaders Seek Mutually Acceptable Proposals

LONDON, Feb. 5 (AP)—Britain will spare no efforts to reach a settlement of the British-Egyptian dispute "that takes account of the legitimate rights of both parties," Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden told the House of Commons tonight.

Arab leaders also hunted a way to end the festering quarrel.

In the Middle East, Iraq premier Nuri Said Pasha joined King Ibn Saud of Saudi Arabia in an approach to both sides which clearly was designed to get British troops out of the Suez Canal zone, persuade Egypt to accept a plebiscite in the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan, and unite the Moslem states of the Middle East into a security system which would be supported but not controlled by the Western Allies.

Al Misri, a Cairo newspaper which backs the policies of the powerful Wafdists, reported today that Nuri Said has received from Britain a six-point formula for settling the dispute.

A Foreign Office spokesman refused to comment on the newspaper's statement, but confirmed this country has replied to some ideas the Iraqi leader put forward in a recent visit.

The reported proposals closely resembled a plan put forward to the Cairo and London governments previously by Ibn Saud.

This broadly is what the Arab leaders' plan looked like:

1. British evacuation of the Suez Canal at an agreed date.

2. This evacuation would be on condition of the prior return of peace and security in the canal zone.

3. British military installations in the area would be maintained for use in case of a threat to the security of the canal.

4. Both Britain and Egypt would agree on the means of maintenance and protection of these bases.

5. Agreement would be reached on the defense of the Middle East in case of aggression and the basis of this defense would be an Arab security pact.

6. The question of the future of the Sudan would be decided by a plebiscite in the Sudan, with no pressure from either Egypt or Britain.

Vancouver Men Tried in U.S.

SEATTLE, Feb. 5 (CP)—Two Vancouver men went on trial in Superior Court here today on two charges of grand larceny.

They are James E. (Gene) Mason, 38, former boxing promoter, and Ashley A. Griffith, 50.

One charge accuses them of obtaining $15,800 from Henry Watson, 65, a retired Canadian laborer, stripping him of all but $8.82 of his life savings.

The second charge says they obtained "more than $25" from Henry Mattson of Cordova, Alaska. Mattson, a fisherman, told police he had posted $3,000 with Griffith and Mason as proof he could have paid his share of wagers which had been placed on a credit basis.

He had returned to Cordova to obtain another $17,000 "security" when his banker warned him against continuing with the venture and Mattson informed police of his suspicions.

Griffith and Mason subsequently were arrested in a Seattle hotel room. Police said Watson lost his money in the same way Mattson had.

Veteran City Barber To Lay Down Scissors

After almost 40 years of cutting hair—and though he still keeps in trim by chopping wood and other household chores—79-year-old city barber Walter Fooks, 4011 Cedar Hill Crossroad, has finally laid down his clippers and scissors.

Known to hundreds of Victorians who regularly visited his shop at 1311 Broad, Mr. Fooks has missed only six working days in 37 years.

He says that from now on he will devote most of his time to work around the house.

other setback in their late drive for a P.C.H.L. playoff berth at Memorial Arena last night when Edmonton Flyers grabbed a 1-0 verdict in a close-checking game played before over 4,500 fans.

The loss, coupled with Calgary's surprise win over Saskatoon, again dropped the Cougars into the league basement and left them five points behind the Vancouver Canucks and the last playoff berth.

Playing it close to the vest with Kenny Reardon again doing the masterminding from the bench, the Cougars just failed to halt the injury-riddled Flyers, who took the ice with four regulars out of action through injuries and a fifth seeing no service after the first period.

Missing from the Edmonton team last night were forwards Colin Kilburn, Pop Backor, Nels Podolsky and Hartley McLeod while Eldor Thomas, who tried to play despite a groin injury, saw only a few minutes of action.

ANDERSON BACK

The Cougars were at full numerical strength with the return to action of Doug Anderson enabling Joe Medynski to sit this one out and give his injured shoulder a rest.

Right from the start it was a close-checking affair and as the game wore on it became evident that one goal would probably be enough. It came in the third period and was far from clean cut. Johnny Raynak broke up a Victoria play at centre ice and moved across the Cougar blueline on the right wing. Jim Uniac missed his pass in front of the goal, spun around and found the puck at his feet. His wild backhand stab found the net with goalie Jerry Cotnoir out of position and with no chance to make the save.

BRENNAN ON JOB

Cougars, who weren't able to get untracked offensively, showed their best in the third period but failed to cash in on three Flyer penalties in the period. They came close several times but found goalie Bill Brennan on the job each time they managed to get by the solid Edmonton defense.

At other times, the Cougars spoiled promising chances with a tendency to do too much stick-handling or to make an extra pass instead of blasting at Brennan when in good position. Turning point probably came in the second period when the losers got a three-on-one break only to miss out when Ed Dorohoy delayed his pass too long and Howie Cox managed to break it up. Brennan twice stopped Leon Bouchard on dangerous shots and got a glove to a high, ticketed drive from the stick of Walt Atanas.

MISSED CHANCES

For Flyers, it was Motto McLean and Uniac who missed the good chances when they managed to get a break. Uniac's iced shot from a sharp angle after a break from a Victoria attack hit the post and slid right across the goal-mouth early in the third period.

Shuffled Stamps Show Life

Calgary Stampeders, playing with a reshuffled line-up, moved out of the Pacific Coast Hockey League cellar last night by downing Saskatoon Quakers 5-3 in Calgary, while Victoria Cougars were bowing to Edmonton Flyers.

Stu Hendry replaced veteran Russ Derrett in goal for the Stampeders, who were also minus Jack Miller, sold to Victoria, and Jim Bedard, released by Calgary and optioned to New Westminster by the parent Chicago Black Hawks.

Stampeders held a wide territorial edge in the first period and it was only the brilliant work of Lorne Worsley in the Saskatoon goal that prevented them from running up a large margin.

Scoring was evenly divided with George Agar of Stamps picking up a goal and an assist to boost his lead over Ed Dorohoy in the individual scoring race to seven points.

It was Henry's second straight shutout and fifth of the season. On Sunday night he blanked Montreal 1 to 0. He has allowed only one goal in the last three games.

Salary Limits To Be Fought By Baseball

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 (AP).—Organized baseball hauls out its heavy legal guns tomorrow to combat a recent government ruling which puts a new squeeze on diamond salaries.

Louis F. Carroll and Ben Fiery, lawyers for the National and American Leagues respectively, head a battery of sports figures to appear at a special hearing called by the salary stabilization board.

The stabilization board Jan. 15 issued a ruling which put a limit on over-all club budgets rather than individual salaries. It said under the edict baseball clubs could fix 1952 salaries under either of the following plans:

1. The total salary payroll of any one year, 1946 through 1950, plus a 10 per cent flat increase.

2. The total salaries paid in 1951 in accordance with previous applicable rulings, without a 10 per cent increase.

The general attitude of baseball, with Brooklyn's president Walter O'Malley the loudest spokesman, is that the ruling handicaps those clubs and players already holding signed 1952 contracts.

Vanni Released

SEATTLE, Feb. 5 (AP).—Edo Vanni, stormy petrel of the Western International League, is out of baseball work.

Now he's a free agent, drawing his outright release from Spokane. So far he hasn't been able to agree on terms with Roy Hotchkiss, boss of the Indians.

Pennsylvania Disregarding Boxing Pact

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 5 (AP).—The Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission, in a brief statement full of loopholes and contradictions, said today it would not recognize a contract in which heavyweight champion Jersey Joe Walcott guaranteed a return bout with Ezzard Charles.

The reason? "It (the contract) has never been filed officially with the commission" nor with the National Boxing Association.

But the three athletic commissioners, after two hours of wrangling, tacked this to the bottom of their statement:

"We do not deny that there is a moral obligation on the part of all."

What does that mean in simple English?

Commissioner John (Ox) Da Gros, summed it up that Walcott morally should fulfil his half of the written bargain but noted that the commission would put no pressure to make him do it.

To make their decision more emphatic the commission, headed by George J. Jones, Jr., said it would continue to recognize Walcott as heavyweight champion "until he loses his title in the ring or retires."

Mount View Wins City Hoop Crown; C. & C. Taxi Captures 12-Point Lead

Mount View High School captured the city intermediate "B" boys' basketball title at the Victoria High gym last night when they dumped St. Louis College, 49-28, in the deciding game of a best-of-three series.

A poor second and third quarter cost the College crew any chance they held of a win as Mount View, led by Alan Snowsell who garnered a total of 15 of his 18 points, hit the hoop with deadly accuracy.

College opened strong and ran up an early 4-0 lead, but the suburbanites got "hot" to hold an 11-6 edge at the end of the first frame. Mount View continued the torrid pace in the middle two frames to outscore the losers 33-10.

Although the College quintet started to roll in the final frame and outscore the winners 12-5, it was too late to carve any dent in Mount View's substantial lead.

Snowsell took scoring honors while Martin was high for the loser with 10.

C. & C. Taxi started on the first step that they hope will lead them to the Lower Island intermediate "B" girls' crown by racking up a 39-27 win over Foresters of the Saanich league.

After being held to an 8-8 first quarter tie by the scrappy Foresters, the winners gradually pulled away in the late stages of the game.

DAVIDSON STARS

They held a 21-15 edge at the half and a 28-19 margin at the three-quarter mark, but despite Irene Davidson's six-point effort in the final frame Foresters could not cut the winner's lead.

Davidson, with 18 points, led all scorers, while Stevenson paced the Taxi girls with 12 points.

Line-ups follow:

C. & C. Taxi—Kalk 2, B. Kent 1, B. Rose 2, A. Sprinkling 5, Hearn 5, J. Kent 10, M. Stevenson 12, M. Moss, P. Rose 7—39.

Foresters—P. Harris 2, P. Lyall 3, K. Elander 2, I. Davison 18, S. Williams, S. Orth, D. Robertson 2, D. Walker—27.

Mt. View—Cameron, Catterall 7, Grainger 4, B. Knudsen, S. Knudsen, Price 2, Snowsell 18, Pringle 1, Pritchard 7, Murray 9—49.

St. Louis College—Martin 10, Sleep 2, Clarkson 6, Hitchcox 2, Morrison 3, O'Neill 5, McGee, French—28.

Suburban Team Cops Big Lead Over Cowichan

McMorrans took a 14-point lead in the two-game total-point series for the right to meet Mount View High School in the Lower Island intermediate "B" boys' basketball final by defeating Lake Cowichan, 61-47, at Lake Cowichan High School last night.

The teams will meet in the second game at the Sooke Community Hall tomorrow at 8.30 p.m.

McMorrans were unable to get under way in the first quarter and fell behind, 17-6, but broke loose with a 22-point attack in the second quarter to lead 29-25 at the half.

Bill Dobbie, six feet seven inches, and Roger Garden, six feet two inches, controlled both backboards and led the winners with 19 and 17 points, respectively. R. Branting was a standout for the losers as he racked up 19 points.

Line-ups follow:

McMorrans—Bill Dobbie 19, Jerry Harris, Roger Garden 17, Chummy Crabbe 8, Ralph Bennett 8, Ted Stenerson, Gordie Cowper, Robert Cunningham 2, Ron Smith, Chuck Bennett. Total, 61.

Lake Cowichan—L. Canning 13, P. Boyat 6, J. Petersen 4, J. Jensen 5, R. Branting 19, R. Hess, E. Campbell. Total, 47.

Frank Sedgman To Pass Up U.S. Net Meet

COLOMBO, Ceylon, Feb. 5 (AP).—Frank Sedgman, Australian star of the recent Davis Cup tennis victory over the United States, won't defend his American title at Forest Hills next summer for purely financial reasons.

Sedgman, playing here in the Asian championships while on his honeymoon, said today that he will concentrate on winning the Wimbledon championship in England, the only major event that has eluded him so far.

Asked why he planned to pass up the Forest Hills tournament, which he won last year, Sedgman said: "The pure and simple reason is we have no money."

Sedgman, who received a wedding gift of $12,260, raised by public donations, when he was married to Jean Spence Jan. 30, denied that there was any question about his amateur status.

The big Australian star easily won a second-round match today, whipping Cleam Ebert of Ceylon 6-0, 6-3, 6-0.

Grid Franchise Still Sought By Vancouver

VANCOUVER, Feb. 5 (CP).—Vancouver, jilted but swallowing its pride, is still courting the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

A directors' meeting decided last night to seek iron-clad approval within the next two months of a W.I.F.U. franchise for 1953.

Vancouver wanted to field a team this year but the franchise application was rejected recently at a stormy annual meeting of the W.I.F.U. in Regina.

Now, with all hope lost for this year, directors of Vancouver's football organization are looking ahead to 1953. But they want an answer within the two months.

In announcing that they would continue to press for entry of a west coast club, directors said they could concentrate for the time being on aiding junior football here.

At the W.I.F.U. meeting, Calgary and Edmonton favored admitting Vancouver into the conference, with Regina and Winnipeg opposing.

Blade to Quit

VANCOUVER, Feb. 5 (CP).—Hank Blade said last night on his departure for the prairies that he plans to resign as coach of Calgary Stampeders, cellar team in the Pacific Coast Hockey League.

He told reporters as he stepped aboard a plane carrying him away from a disastrous coast tour that he would like to continue as a player for Calgary "if they still want me."

McFater Loses Decision To Lightweight Champ

TORONTO, Feb. 5 (CP). — James Carter of New York City, lightweight boxing champion of the world, tonight earned a unanimous decision over Toronto's Allan McFater in a nine-round non-title bout at Maple Leaf Gardens. Carter weighed 136, McFater 141.

The bout drew more than 8,000 fans. The gate amounted to $17,334.

Carter beat McFater to the punch most of the way although the Canadian boy was never on the run.

Veteran Toronto fight followers termed the exhibition McFater's best ever.

The Canadian Press score card gave Carter six rounds, McFater two and one even.

NEEDED KNOCKOUT

Carter's best rounds were the fourth and fifth when it appeared as if he might kayo the game Toronto lad. He rocked McFater with rights and lefts to the head, working on the body from close in. It was obvious in the sixth that McFater would need a knockout to win.

McFater stood up to the champion's attack in the closing rounds, but his punches lacked steam. The gallery roared time and again as the Toronto lad laid into Carter, but most of his punches were landing on the champion's gloves, shoulders and head.

McFater's best punch was a right to the head. He used it to good advantage in the opening rounds as Carter held back. The champion let him carry the action in the first two stanzas.

Best exchange of the fight came midway through the seventh when both fighters stood toe to toe and traded lefts and rights.

The doors will open at 7 p.m. and entries will be taken until 8 p.m.

Athletes Gathering for Winter Games At Oslo--Accommodations Draw Praise

OSLO, Norway, Feb. 5 (CP).—This city of 400,000 population is shaping up as the world's sport centre with the cream of the globe's winter sports athletes arriving daily for the Olympics.

Competitors from about 20 to 30 participating countries are here and 50 of the expected 460 newspaper men and photographers have moved into the newly-built press hotel.

Oslo is taking on the Olympic look. The five rings, symbol of the games are predominant in store windows and the flags of the competing countries are going up in hotels, shops and other buildings.

UNITED NATIONS

Athletes with the "Canada" flash on their shoulders are hobnobbing with Chileans, Frenchmen, Austrians, Icelanders, Swedes, Italians and others at Sogn, the Olympic village in North Oslo.

Sogn is made up of two modern, electrically-heated eight-story apartment buildings which will house the expected 1,100 to 1,200 competitors. There are two beds to a room, a table with reading lamps, built-in cupboards and every floor has two sitting rooms, showers and wash rooms. Workshops for repairs are located in the cellar. The buildings also have a large restaurant, post and telegraph office, and laundry.

Canadians now in the village—skiers and figure skaters—are high in their praise of the quarters and the food.

SKIER LAUDED

The Canadian speed skaters are at Lillehammer, about 70 miles north of Oslo, until Monday. Edmonton Mercurys, Canada's hockey team, are making an extended European tour and are not expected until shortly before the games start Feb. 14.

The skiers were out today at the Rodkleiva slalom course in a northern Oslo suburb and the most impressive was Mrs. Rhoda Wurtele Eaves of Montreal. Frank Gabl, coach of the Canadian women skiers, said he is confident Mrs. Eaves will be up there with the best in the world.

Five-Point Splurge Boosts Ted Lindsay Into Third Place in Scoring Statistics

Ted Lindsay of Detroit made the biggest jump in the National Hockey League's individual scoring race last week when he picked up five points to move from seventh to third place.

Teammate Gordie Howe continues to set the pace in points with 51 and in goals with 26. Montreal's Elmer Lach is second with 45 points, including a pace-setting 33 assists.

Richard dropped to fourth place and even that position is being threatened by four players. Richard has 40 points while Toronto's Sid Smith, New York's Don Raleigh and Boston's Johnny Peirson have 39.

SAWCHUK TOPS

Detroit's Terry Sawchuk has 10 shutouts to his credit, five more than his nearest rivals, Al Rollins of Toronto and Jim Henry of Boston.

Boston's Gus Kyle is the league's bad man with 109 minutes in the penalty box.

Toronto players hold the dubious honor of having served the most minutes in penalties. They have sat out 324 minutes in the penalty box while Detroit follows with 465 and Montreal with 461. Boston has served 427, Chicago 406 and New York has been penalized only 352 minutes.

Royals' Owner Hopes to Keep Team Intact

NEW WESTMINSTER, Feb. 5 (CP)—Kenny MacKenzie, owner of the league-leading New Westminster Royals of the Pacific Coast Hockey League, wants to keep his present team intact for the 1952-53 season.

He will go east next month to see N.H.L. clubs regarding interest in goalie Lucien Dechene and rookie Guyle Fielder.

Dechene is almost certain to be P.C.H.L. all-star goalie for the second year in a row.

"I will not stand in their way if they want to go up," said MacKenzie. "But I don't want to lose them for the $10,000 draft price. That sum would be ridiculous."

But, he added, "I would rather keep my team as it is than sell a player."

Here's How

By SAM SNEAD
Golf's Greatest Player-Teacher

This is "exam" day. Here's a "what's wrong" picture. Beginning at the left toe, how many flaws do you see? Count them.

Well, there are six at least. The player's left foot instead of being perched on the toe, should have the heel raised perhaps not more than three inches, and some weight should be on the inside of the ball of the foot. His toe should be pointing left. The left knee should be pointed toward the ball. The hip has pivoted beyond the 45°. The shoulder pivot has been made in a horizontal plane. A more perpendicular plane should be used. That is the left shoulder should be lower and the right shoulder higher. The left arm is bent instead of straight. The hands have not moved high enough to permit the shaft to reach a horizontal position. The head and the whole upper part of the body have moved laterally to the right, instead of remaining in the fixed position taken at the address.

Trailing Commercial Hockey Teams Battle for Playoff Positions Tonight

The Commercial Hockey League spotlight will swing to the three bottom teams in the league tonight.

These teams—Civil Service, Army and Individual Cleaners—now only separated by a single point, will be fighting for the fourth and final berth in the [illegible] when Victoria Merchants have already clinched berths while Navy is reasonably assured of making the playdowns, having a four-point hold on third place and only three more nights remaining in the schedule.

Cellar-dwelling Individuals will meet Civil Service in the opening game tonight at 7. Navy will tangle with Army in the nightcap attraction while Merchants will take on Army in the finale.

NEAR LEAGUE TITLE

A win for 7-Ups would almost assure it the league championship.

Army will have a hard row to hoe. Mel Hunter is away and is not expected back. Curly Pettis has apparently hung up his skates saying he is "too old for the game," and Bill Rostek will play his last game for the club tonight before leaving for a new course in the east.

Stew Vary, Army's high scorer, has been sick in bed for the past couple of days but the soldiers hope he will be out.

Coach Charlie Pachall announced that in spite of the handicaps Army will be in the thick of it when the playoffs come around and it will start by beating Merchants tonight.

The playoffs will be best-of-seven series for the semi-finals and best-of-seven for the finals. All games will have three regulation periods with clock stoppage.

Defending champion Polly Riley tied for third with 37-41—78. Others with 78s were Betty Rowland, 37-41—78, and Carol Diringer, 38-40—78.

"Now I've caught up with Grandma!"

Grandma was one of those unforgettable characters you read about. And every time I think of her, I remember one of her favourite sayings: "Early sow — Early mow".

Many years have passed since Grandma died. But just the other day something happened to remind me of that old motto of hers.

I was working over my budget, trying not to admit what the figures told me: My savings had slipped. At this rate, it was a cinch that some of the things I'd started to save for would have to wait. Suddenly I remembered "Early sow . . ."

"Old-fashioned stuff!" I told myself. Then I got to thinking. "Maybe it is tough to save today. But it's still important — still my only hope of getting some of the things I want most.

"Well, at least I'm keeping up my life insurance payments," I thought. "That's a way of saving which combines protection for my family as well. And maybe if I make an extra effort to put more money aside I'll reach my goals sooner.

"So here goes! I'll try again. I'll find some new ways to economize. Somehow I'm sure I can manage to be more thrifty."

And you know — it's a funny thing! The moment I made that decision, I realized that Grandma's idea was not old-fashioned. I've just caught up with her now!

LIFE INSURANCE works for you these other ways:

Every dollar you set aside in life insurance — or in savings of any kind — works to check inflation, thus protecting the value of all your money.

Your life insurance helps to improve your living standards too! A large part of each dollar you pay in premiums is invested for you in ways that help provide new homes, schools, highways, power plants, oil pipelines and other vital projects throughout the nation.

Today nearly five million thrifty Canadians are providing security for their families — and promoting progress in their own and other communities — by their ownership of life insurance!

New Tug Due Here Today

MARINE NEWS

The latest addition to the fast-growing towboat fleet of British Columbia will be inspected by a group of Victoria marine men this afternoon.

Making her maiden trip to this port will be the 110-foot tug Joan Lindsay, slated to join the tug fleet of Vancouver Barge Transportation Ltd.

The vessel is named after the sister of J. M. Lindsay, manager of the firm. She brings to four the number of large towing craft operated by the company.

The Joan Lindsay is a former United States naval vessel. She was purchased in Seattle about a year ago by Mr. Lindsay, and her conversion was handled at a Vancouver shipyard.

The tug is expected here early this morning and this afternoon will carry a number of local shipping and marine personnel on a trial run off the Ogden Point area. She will return to the mainland late this afternoon, with two freight-laden scows in tow.

The 320-horsepower Diesel craft will operate in lower B.C. waters, calling regularly at Vancouver Island ports.

Considerable interest is being shown in the 42-year-old Ss. Princess Mary, now up for sale.

The veteran C.P.R. coastal steamer was retired from service last November and is now tied up in Thetis Cove, Esquimalt.

She is to be sold on a "where is, as is" basis.

Through ship brokers of the Pacific coast shipping interests of practically all the world will have heard of the vessel and her availability.

There have been a number of enquiries, mostly verbal, concerning the 260-foot vessel. Representatives of at least one interested firm have already toured the ship.

Bids will be opened at the end of this month. They will be forwarded to company headquarters in Montreal for a decision.

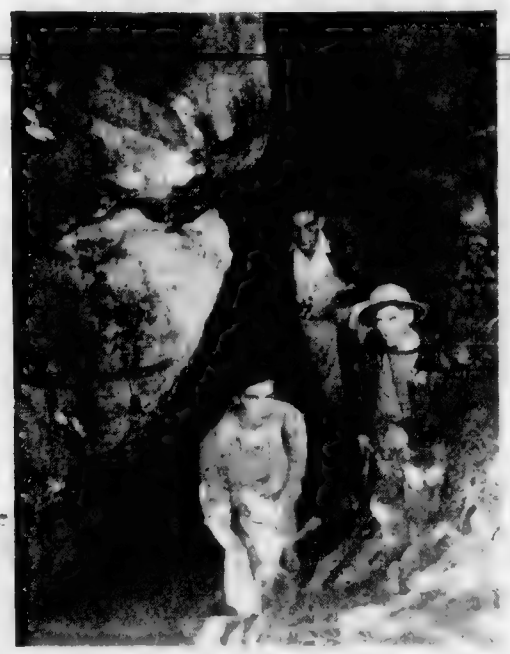
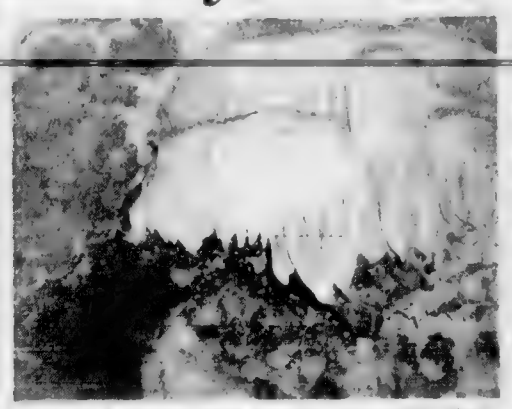
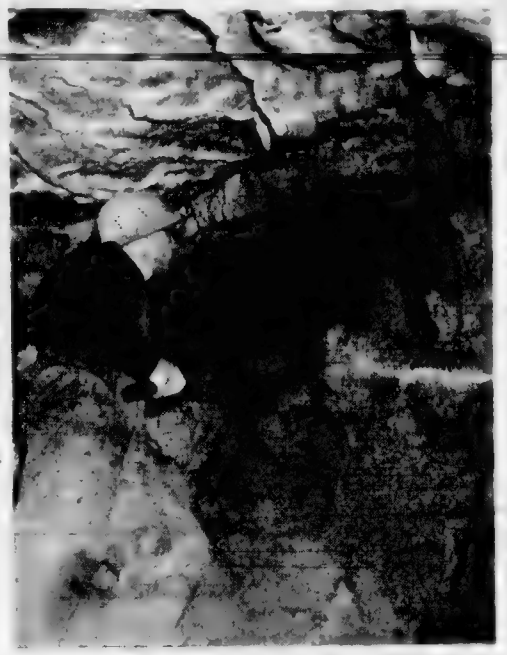
Weird Caves May Attract Tourists





Situated in private logging property, caves are in ridges above Horne Lake. Dead cold repels even dark-loving bats. Nothing grows there and no animals enter. Shown are white stone peaks in main picture. Points of some of formations reach four or five feet from ceilings.



Eventual use of three strange "geologic caves in Parksville has not yet been decided. Touched by fingers drilled by seasonal streams tracing through, the three caves could be used as "tourist attractions" or as raid shelters. At mouth of largest stand Bately, Ivey and Vic Phillips.

S.P.C.A. Sees Red Over Vivisection

A large group of ardent animal lovers gave a fellow member a pretty rough time last night.

West Vancouver's David P. Catherwood, at the annual meeting of the Victoria branch of the B.C.S.P.C.A., was the object of the group's wrath.

Before the start of the business meeting, Mr. Catherwood was asked to explain the charges that the provincial parent body had been dressing dogs for speed and dogs in medical research at the University of B.C.

Before he had spoken two sentences a member called:

"Try to get out of this one."

"We're here because we love animals. Mr. Ricardo eats living cats that have been shouted at angry words.

"Newly elected president was given a unanimous vote of confidence."

Mr. Ricardo said that use of animals in laboratory experiments is increasing.

"Our job is to get in and see how it is being done. By co-operation with medical research we will, we're quite sure, be fighting with them," he said.

He said the B.C.S.P.C.A. in Victoria gave "a million to a penny" where unwanted dogs are concerned, but would be reluctant now to build the modern screen, rather than having dogs put to sleep in a gas chamber.

Animals will be used anyway, he said, and the best way to help them is in a supervisory capacity.

"We mustn't spend our time fighting the world, but trying to sell our ideas to the medical profession. They're not sad ists."

'Bunk!' shouted one irate member.

Dr. Campbell-Jones said he knew the first cause a branch of the S.P.C.A. in South America had started at mass over to the torturers.

He said he knew that 8,000,000 dogs were put buried in the U.S. every year.

He said he had good friends who were president's dogs "dogs that brought joy, pleasure and companionship to their masters and were treated as members of the family."

City Mumps Case Total Swelling Like Victims

New Figures Considered

$31,000 Cost Difference Blamed on Chief's Office

A discrepancy of about $31,000 in figures showing cost of the firemen's wage demand to the city has been attributed to a mistake in the fire chief's office.

Using a figure of $113,177 as the cost of the firemen's request to the city, City Manager Cecil Wyatt recently rejected the demands and asked the union representatives to come back with a more moderate schedule.

Meeting Monday with the manager, the firemen claimed the $113,177 figure was all wrong. Total cost, they said, would be only $68,663.

The manager and personnel officer Newton Smith retired to consider the new figure.

Both Mr. Wyatt and Mr. Smith later admitted there was an error but that it had been made in the fire chief's office, not the manager's.

Mr. Smith said last night that the firemen's figure of $68,663 was not entirely correct either. It was extremely difficult to arrive at an exact cost of the asked increases owing to the change in individual pay rates from time to time, he said.

In addition to an over-all 24 cent-an-hour increase on the basic wage, the firemen are requesting certain other benefits, including increased pay for long service.

The negotiations, meanwhile, are stalemated while the costs are being considered.

Winter Blocks Donors, Red Cross Needs Blood

British Columbia's Interior winter has caused an acute shortage in the area's blood banks, and Victoria's Red Cross House will hold a special Feb. 7 clinic to help relieve the situation.

Interior donors could not get out to clinics because of snow-logged roads, and Victoria's hospitals are faced with a shortage caused when aerial shipments drained their supplies.

Red Cross officials hope for at least 300 donors during the day. Clinic hours are from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. and from 7 to 9:30 p.m.

Vancouver Lapd Beau Brummels can stop worrying about the fearsome reports from London's Savile Row that soon the well-dressed man will be wearing pipe stem pants.

A canvass of leading men's furnishing shops yesterday resulted in a general turning of "Anno and Cutter's high-browed dictum that men may have to go barefoot to comb into their new narrow-legged trouser.

Foster Father Ordered To Spring Assizes Trial

WINNIPEG, Feb. 5 (CP)—Gavin McCullough was committed to the May assizes for trial on a charge of murder in the shooting of his foster father, Martin Lesosky.

Bail under $10,000 for Harold McCullough was refused when the Spring Assizes opened at Selkirk. His wife Lorna, 22, also had been charged with the slaying of Lesosky, 61, on a farm near Stonewall, 20 miles north of Winnipeg.

Chief Justice E. K. Williams in setting the case over, said he wished to say something "to the press and through the press to the general public and especially to those whose 'real story' I say seems to be trumpeting over their discretion."

Gavin McCullough has been committed to this court for trial in accordance with the course of law known to our criminal law. The charge is murder.

In the eyes of the law he is presumed to be innocent and will remain so until the Crown satisfies a trial judge or jury, as the case may be, beyond reasonable doubt that he is guilty.

After repeating the precautionary advice that has been given to this court he is under the protection of the court and has protection he will receive.

He is entitled to a fair and unprejudiced trial and it is contempt of court to prejudice matters before their time.

The court is always loath to exercise its very wide powers to prevent fair comment but it will not hesitate to do so if it considers it necessary.

I hope I am clearly drawn attention in this matter so no one will form views or do anything that might prejudice the fair trial of this man when it takes place."

Japanese Object To Terms

TOKYO, Feb. 6 (Wednesday) (INS)—Spokesmen for four major opposition parties today voiced vigorous objections to the proposed defense model which American forces would remain in Japan after the peace treaty goes into effect.

The details of stationing U.S. security forces in Japan after the peace treaty goes into effect have been under discussion in Tokyo since Jan. 29.

The opposition parties, who are the Democratic Liberal Party, Labor-Farmer Party, Socialist Party and Communist Party, are opposed to the agreement now being negotiated between Japan and the United States.

Japan has earmarked about $180,000,000 to match the $160,000,000 put up by the United States. The American share is in addition to the cost of [illegible] feeding and equipping the forces at its own expense.

Socialist spokesmen raised the possibility that Japan may be converted into a U.S. atom bomber base. U.S. Ambassador Dean Rusk heading the American delegation discussing the agreement has already denied the U.S. has such intentions.

Near-Fatal Wound May Bring New Life

DALLAS, Tex., Feb. 5 (INS)—A four-time loser has a chance today for a new and respectable life because a bullet ripped into his brain with the precision of a surgeon's knife.

Physicians said the pistol slug fired in Lloyd "Pete" Cole's right eye in a West Dallas tavern brawl, performed a crude but effective version of the brain operation known as prefrontal lobotomy.

This operation, in which the nerve pathways between the prefrontal lobes and the rest of the brain are severed sometimes is performed on habitual or violent criminals.

THE KING IS DEAD; LONG LIVE THE QUEEN

News Stuns U.K.

LONDON, Feb. 6 (Wednesday) (CP) — The official news of the King's death shocked the nation which has been deeply worried about his health.

Some courts abruptly adjourned their hearings. One murder trial was suspended for 10 minutes after the presiding judge received the official news.

Both Houses of Parliament are expected to adjourn immediately after meeting today and making formal expressions of sympathy with the Royal family. The House of Commons is in the midst of an angry debate on foreign policy.

Both Mr. Churchill and the leaders of Britain's other two major parties — Laborite Clement Attlee and Liberal Clement Davies — are expected to speak at the brief House of Commons session.

Ottawa Shocked

OTTAWA, Feb. 6 (CP) — This capital was deeply shocked early today by the news of the sudden death of the King.

Immediate plans were made to call a meeting during the day of the Canadian cabinet.

Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent, informed of the King's death by members of his staff, informed the members of his cabinet and went early to his office in the east block of the Parliament Buildings.

Flags on the Parliament Buildings and other government structures throughout the city, raised at dawn before word of the King's death seeped through the city, were lowered to half-staff.

Ades said the prime minister as all Canadians is deeply shocked by the passing of a monarch who came to visit this country personally little more than a dozen years ago.

Monarch Passes Quietly in Sleep

SANDRINGHAM, England, Feb. 6 (CP)—King George VI died peacefully in his sleep today. His 25-year-old daughter, Elizabeth, immediately became Britain's Queen.

An official announcement said death came at his country residence here in the farm country of Norfolk.

The King, 56, underwent a serious lung operation last September 23. Recently he had appeared haggard but yesterday he seemed in good health.

Britain's new Queen Elizabeth is returning to London by air today from Kenya.

The announcement of the monarch's death at his country home in Sandringham came at 10.45 a.m. local time (2.45 a.m. P.S.T.). The Queen Elizabeth and Princess Margaret, the Royal couple's youngest daughter were at Sandringham when the King died.

The new heir to Britain's throne, tiny Prince Charles, also is at Sandringham. He is just over three years old.

The King, who last September underwent a serious operation involving cutting away part or all of a lung, was thought to be recovering. He went on a country outing yesterday. The Palace statement said he retired last night in apparently good health, but passed away peacefully early this morning.

The King's last public appearance was last week when he said goodbye at London airport to Princess Elizabeth and the Duke when they left on their tour of Commonwealth countries in Africa, Asia and Australia.

News of the death was immediately flashed to the new Queen at the shooting lodge at Nyeri, Kenya.

It was expected she would return to Britain immediately. Parliament was likely to be adjourned in the middle of an important foreign affairs debate.

Prime Minister Winston Churchill held a meeting of the cabinet immediately after the Sovereign's death was announced.

Born Dec. 14, 1895, the second son of King George V and Queen Mary, who survives him at the age of 84, the late King succeeded to the throne Dec. 11, 1936, after the abdication of his eldest brother, King Edward VIII.

The quiet family man who put Royal duty above personal pleasure quickly endeared himself to his millions of subjects around the world.

The monarch led Britain through her worst ordeal when the island kingdom faced the victory-flushed German armies alone. His words of comfort, his prayers, his encouragement, helped Britons meet and turn back the foe's blitzkrieg. With his prime minister, Winston Churchill, the King will be long remembered for his part in Britain's "finest hour."

George VI--"The Man Who Stayed in Town"

Windsor House Unity's Symbol

It will be history's task to measure the greatness of King George VI as a king. But to his subjects throughout the commonwealth he will become the symbol of tenacity and courage of the spirit. George the VI was more as he himself would like to remember a warrior king a man who steadfastly remained in the capital of chaos and carnage, the like of which the world had never before witnessed.

While kings and leaders of the war-torn world were fleeing from the wrath of enemy bombers, it was George, and his wife who stayed in London with it was George, the man, who stood bare-headed in the rubble of things built by centuries symbolizing his people in their anguish. His own home Buckingham Palace [illegible]

Not since the reign of George III who fought on the battlefield at Dettingen has a reigning monarch been so much in touch No king before him in British history shared so much the trials and tribulations of the people.

By The Canadian Press

When George VI ascended to the British throne in 1936 he said: "I [illegible] instant endeavor, with God's help, supported as I shall be by my dear wife to uphold the honor of the realm, and to promote the happiness of my people."

To this pledge he held steadfast. In peace in war in illness and turn of fortune he became a living example of integrity. Doubts that had arisen over his capacity to take the place in public esteem of his elder brother, Edward VIII, were soon solved and

Three years after Edward's abdication his leadership was put to the supreme test by the second World War. The way in which he accepted the same dangers as his people strengthened the bonds of loyalty. His grave in the Commonwealth's affection was secure.

Pictured against white sea mists as he [illegible] inspection [illegible] the King was a familiar figure to his people.

Sincere and often reserved he [illegible] Christian devotion and his moral [illegible] to [illegible] and [illegible] were [illegible] strain. In the company of the Queen and the Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret he found relaxation from the hard round of state pageantry and official responsibility. Birth of [illegible] and a daughter to Princess Elizabeth following her marriage to the Duke of Edinburgh completed the family circle.

Though George VI received no direct training for the throne he learned often during Edward's brief reign to lighten the [illegible] of royalty. As Duke of York he devoted much time to social welfare [illegible] centres especially [illegible] dealing with workers of all ranks. In 1923 he started [illegible] camps attended by [illegible] numbers of boys from [illegible] and from workingclass districts and came to feel to direct them until he became king.

Called dramatically to the throne George VI [illegible] the Duke of Windsor on [illegible] Dec. 12 1936 and announced that he [illegible] set of his reign would [illegible] prefer the title of Duke of Windsor over his brother who had left Britain on his abdication. Within the space of 11 months the Commonwealth had [illegible] its experience unknown since the 18th century.

As the burden of his high position increased George received unwavering support from Queen Elizabeth and in all of his public utterances he paid tribute to her. The phrase "The Queen and I" continually occurred in his speeches and in private he made no secret of his debt to her.

How much family life meant to the king was illustrated by the fact that when Princess Elizabeth married Nov. 20 1947 he expressed regret that the couple could have as few public engagements planned for them as possible during the first [illegible] of their married life.

"Let them have time to be together, that is what we must see to," he said. "Let them get off to a good start."

Before the attitude [illegible] Buckingham Palace in front of the [illegible] on the night of April 20 1921 [illegible] 11 1919 when the first [illegible] Prince Charles was born at Buckingham Palace the king again remembering his own early days ordered that no Duke [illegible] should be present at the Princess's [illegible] their son was at least one out of the room while [illegible] Princess Elizabeth [illegible] Prince Philip [illegible] a January morning in 1947 [illegible] month tour of Australia [illegible] behind them Princess [illegible] with them aged [illegible] Princess Elizabeth [illegible] Princess Anne was born Aug. 15, 1950.

SERIOUS ILLNESS

Five months after the historic Royal wedding on April 26 1948 the king and Queen were [illegible] scenes as the central figures in a ceremony of [illegible] with a great [illegible] rage. They were deeply touched by the warmth [illegible] greetings as they drove from the Palace to St. Paul's Cathedral and back along streets packed tight with cheering men women and children.

The king was never a man of robust physical strength and in the days following the excitement of Elizabeth's wedding and his own silver wedding it [illegible] noted that he showed increasing signs of fatigue.

In the midst of preparations for a long tour of Australia and New Zealand the world was shocked by an announcement on Nov. 20 1948 that the tour was cancelled. Doctors found that an arterial ailment in the King's right leg was preventing the blood supply from reaching his foot. Complete rest was ordered.

The King cancelled the tour later rescheduled for 1952 with reluctance knowing how much disappointment, upset and even financial loss would be caused to people in Australia and New Zealand. There is nothing in life he [illegible] more than [illegible] he has promised a friend or [illegible] at the time.

This picture of the new Queen saved Great Britain at the time that Princess Elizabeth took the Trooping of the Color for her father. It had the greatest sale of any picture of this era.

Regal bearing and strength of character of the young Queen was never better illustrated than in this fine study.

Wearing a coronet and a sweeping smile during her Canadian visit, Elizabeth looks every inch the Queen that she now is.

A lovely debutante and a young farm girl, in sharp contrast, are shown in these two early-day pictures of the new Queen.

Preparation to be a Queen is a hard grind from early life. Here, Princess Elizabeth is shown at her studies.

Queen Elizabeth, at 11 years of age, was a thought far from the mind of this attractive young girl. This is a famous early portrait of the new Queen.

The Commonwealth Mourns

THE profound shock of the passing of King George VI when his subjects throughout the British Commonwealth had begun with some confidence to believe that he was safely over his recent serious lung operation and was on his way to full recovery came as a sudden blow this morning, moments after the news was flashed around the world. Princess Elizabeth assumes the Throne immediately, as the second Queen Elizabeth of British history and Queen of Canada by direct succession. A Commonwealth and a nation in mourning will testify now to the wealth of loyalty, esteem and affection in which the late King George was held.

The King died in his sleep at Sandringham, with his wife and younger daughter around him. Only 56 years of age, from the time of his succession to the day of his death his reign had been marked by conspicuous traits of conscientiousness and quiet attention to the great responsibilities of his high office, in direct line of succession to one of the oldest and most responsible constitutional monarchies in the world. His early naval training, his love of travel and his ever present interest in youth had rounded out a mature and capable character who was a rock of steadfastness in the constitutional and social welfare of the British Commonwealth of Nations.

It was in 1939 after the remembered tour of King George and his Royal Consort, Queen Elizabeth, that Canadians came to know and to love this sincere and self-effacing monarch. The visit of his elder daughter, now Queen Elizabeth, with Prince Philip to this country is still fresh in all minds.

In response to the profound shock caused by the suddenness of King George's death, all hearts will go out now to his widow, his children and all members of the Royal Family. It is difficult for the mind to grasp the news that came over the wires in the early hours of this morning. The belief that King George was out of danger and convalescing was prevalent, and supported in part by the recent departure of former Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip to Africa where they were in the middle of their Kenya visit, preparatory to going on to Australia and New Zealand. Of course that tour will now be [illegible]

[illegible] the new Queen [illegible] Canada's [illegible] the [illegible] of King George's [illegible] Canada's [illegible]

"You'll get more than you think you'll get—and quicker!—if my wall isn't finished tonight."

Even Solomon Dodged It

THE storm which may [illegible] follow the week-old announcement by the defense department that it proposed after March 1 to divide a serviceman's pay into about two equal portions and give one part arbitrarily to his wife has been gathering force across Canada ever since. From army and air force messes, commissioned and otherwise, have gone up sturdy, if mutfled, protests with some plain speaking on the rights of a man in his own home. They result of all this objection is now beginning to find its way to Ottawa, and something at least resembling a flag of truce has been run up by the defense department, where it is said Mr. Claxton has been inundated by service remonstrances against the plan.

It was a ridiculous suggestion in the first place, whoever fathered it. If the defense department had the right to do that it would become more powerful in a serviceman's home than the man himself. It, and not he, would decide the family budget, the distribution of his income, and of necessity also the [illegible] It [illegible] the purpose [illegible] warned the defense department that [illegible] treading on personal relations, [illegible] beyond its scope. There were also [illegible] doubts, such as the inherent right of any man who earns his pay to dispose of it as he may see fit. We said at the time that the proposal smacked of bureaucracy run riot. So the country-wide protest did not surprise us. What did, and does, is the fact that the government ever could have entertained such a [illegible] kept dog sermons.

As matters stand, Defense Minister Claxton had better take it back. If this was a trial balloon, it has been badly punctured. Not only in service circles where it would begin, but also in civilian life where it might soon follow, this put-and-take plan would be an entirely unwarranted invasion of individual rights, a government declaration in fact that it would act as referee in the home. No government from the time of King [illegible] ment ever knew enough for that or ever [illegible]

Too Few Men for the Job

THE increasing number of burglaries and other offenses under cover of darkness in Victoria should be sufficient proof, if any more were needed, of the inadequacy of the city's night watch. This is a reflection not on the individual policemen on night duty, who appear to be doing their job efficiently, but on a system which assigns nocturnal protection to a force far too small for the area it has to patrol.

Roving juveniles seem able to break into and ransack dwellings and business premises almost at will, because a policeman responsible for a beat big enough for seven or three can't be everywhere at once. Good detective work ultimately brings most of these young hoodlums to book, but that is small satisfaction to the people whose places have been robbed. No sooner have the courts disposed of those responsible for one series of offenses than others step in to take [illegible] and [illegible] the job two [illegible] with the [illegible] would not be necessary. [illegible] deterrent sight of uniforms were [illegible] men at night.

Whether this situation could be improved by a reorganization of duties within the present force to make more than [illegible] the night patrols, or whether the [illegible] is to be augmented to the obvious [illegible] it is for the [illegible] to decide. [illegible] action one [illegible] even for [illegible] not have to [illegible] much longer. Monarch Best Known Of All History's Kings

The quiet family man who put Royal duty above personal pleasure quickly endeared himself to his millions of subjects around the world.

The monarch led Britain through her worst ordeal when the island kingdom faced the victory-flushed German armies alone. His words of comfort, his prayers, his encouragement, helped Britons meet and turn back the foe's blitzkrieg. With his prime minister Winston Churchill, the King will be long remembered for his part in Britain's "finest hour."

The monarch was better known both to his own subjects and to foreigners than any other modern king. His radio addresses were heard around the world. He traveled extensively despite poor health which plagued him from the time he ascended the throne.

To the modest young brother—who wanted nothing more than to live a quiet life with his family — fell the task of being the nominal ruler of an empire with a total population in excess of 500,000,000, approximately a quarter of the people of the globe. He lacked three days of being 41 years old at the time.

Though the days of his reign saw the empire shrink greatly, the King and his family vastly increased the love and respect in which the Royal Institution was held.

The King had been plagued by poor health since he ascended the throne on the abdication of his brother, King Edward VIII, the present Duke of Windsor.

He was operated on last summer for removal of all or part of one lung under circumstances which indicated he might have cancer.

The reason for the operation was never officially announced.

Fears for his health had been expressed with increasing frequency lately.

Recent pictures of the King have shown a haggard and tired man, with deep circles under his eyes.

But the monarch apparently had felt himself on the road to full recovery.

Just before his daughter and heir, Princess Elizabeth, and the Duke of Edinburgh, left on a trip to Africa and Australia and New Zealand last week the King joined them in a visit to the theatre.

He accompanied them to the airport to see them off last week.

At the time of departure Elizabeth looked with deep seriousness at her father's lined face.

[illegible] Islanders [illegible] were [illegible] last [illegible] to sing "God Save The King" when the news of the death of King George VI was sung for the last time in honor of [illegible] Monarch.

The Royal anthem now will be "God Save The Queen" which will be sung with deep regret at the [illegible] of the death of [illegible] and in [illegible] to the [illegible] Queen [illegible].

Ever-growing public confidence in the Company is attested by the fact that its representatives arranged a record amount of new life insurance and annuities for over 50,000 people during the year. RIGHT THROUGH YATES TO VIEW

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

A holy man pledged to eternal silence is running for a seat in India's parliament. He is bearded Prabhu Dutt Brahmachari, a Hindu Sadhu who has taken an oath never to speak.

His vow naturally prevents him from addressing political meetings or friends' stags for him. No doubt he sits wordlessly on the platform, beaming when the speaker points with pride and scowling when he views with alarm.

The silent Brahmachari has gathered so much support in Prime Minister Nehru's own constituency, Allahabad, that the Congress party boys are worried. His main plank is opposition to the Hindu code bill which confers broad rights upon Hindu women. Its passage, he says in written messages, "will mean the ruin of Hindu culture and religion."

* * *

I don't know about the ruin of Hindu culture, but I feel that old Brahmachari has set a noble example that might well be heeded by politicians in this country.

The West gave India free speech and democracy. Perhaps she is now ready to repay us with a political gift of equal value: silence. I await the day when a wave of blessed silence sweeps out of the Orient and covers us like a blanket.

Only then will our ears, eroded by needless talk and false promises, be able to take a rest.

The technique of silence is not unknown to western statesmen. President Truman and his associates have used "no comment" so often that many Americans take it for his party's slogan.

To go from the ridiculous to the ridiculous, silence has been used to some effect by provincial politicians here. It comes in most handy when a member of one's own party makes a mistake.

Let a Liberal minister speak out of turn, and there is a hush in Liberal ranks that old Brahmachari himself would silently applaud. Let a Conservative minister drop some rash words, and there is a clamor loud enough to scare off the sacred monkeys of the temples of Benares. Some fine friendships have been broken that way.

* * *

Don't misunderstand me. I'm all in favor of free speech, the principle that permits me to keep writing this stuff without being forced to undergo a mental test. I would simply like to see more use made of silence in political campaigning, that's all.

The holy man's method would lessen nervous strain on both the candidate and the voters. Each dumbstruck candidate would have two men to speak for him. One would promise lower taxes and the other would promise more government spending.

At present, a candidate is obliged to make both these promises, and other promises which are just as contradictory, all by himself. As a result you sometimes see a politician being led away to the funny farm with a severe case of split personality.

Other difficulties in a politician's way would be removed by this plan. A politician who says something rash these days is forced to cry "Misquoted." When several hundred persons have heard the statement, and some of them have remembered it, this is hard to put over. It takes nerve.

But when politicians speak only by proxy, they can deny all their promises with a clear conscience.

Universal silence may in time become the rule. Sessions of the House will be conducted by mental telepathy. Legislators and voters will communicate with one another by sign language.

In British Columbia, the voters will scarcely notice the difference. No one in the government listens to them anyway.

Less Party Loyalty in Next Election

In the next provincial election, people will vote more for individuals than for political parties, according to Herbert Anscomb, former minister of finance in the Coalition government.

Mr. Anscomb addressing the annual meeting of the Victoria Federal Progressive Conservative Association, urged that a "high type of candidate" be nominated.

"We should not rush into convention," he said. "We ought to wait and see whether they hang on under this nomenclature of Coalition, which is just a straight [illegible] government."

Both Liberals and Conservatives must fight the election on a free enterprise system, he said.

NO NEW INDUSTRY

"The people do not want a socialist system. He said and he also maintained that no new industries would start under a socialist system in British Columbia.

"In the last 10 years," Mr. Anscomb said, "there has been an increase in British Columbia's population of 40 per cent. No [illegible] from [illegible] people from [illegible] think politically.

In the last decade, he said, nobody has been able to gauge the power of the [illegible] party, or the size of the [illegible] of the C[illegible] brought [illegible] appeared [illegible]

Private Schools Given Praise By Headmaster

Private schools have given leaders to the British Commonwealth of Nations, J. R. Timmis, headmaster of University School, told North Victorian Kiwanians last night.

During a talk on the place of the private schools in the educational system, Mr. Timmis said they give a brand of instruction not found elsewhere.

They are not co-educational; their curricula are independently drawn up; religious instruction is given, and each student gets individual attention.

Qualities of leadership, such as honor of parents, courage and honesty, are instilled in them at an early age, Mr. Timmis said.

"Now I've caught up with Grandma!"

Grandma was one of those unforgettable characters you read about. And every time I think of her I remember one of her favourite sayings. Early sow — Early mow.

Many years have passed since Grandma died. But just the other day something happened to remind me of that old motto of hers.

I was working over my budget, trying not to admit what the figures said. My savings had seeped. At last it was a case of that some of the things I'd started to save for, I'd have to do. Suddenly I remembered. Early sow.

Old-fashioned stuff? I mused. Then I got to thinking. Maybe it is tough to save today. But I could put that thought to work. I could hope of getting some of the things I want most.

Well, at last I'm saving, plus life insurance payments. I bought. That's a way of saving which really works. And maybe I'll make an extra effort to put more money away. I might not get rich. But I might get something I want.

Early sow — early mow. That's the way it is. The message I must tell myself. I must remember. Early sow — early mow.

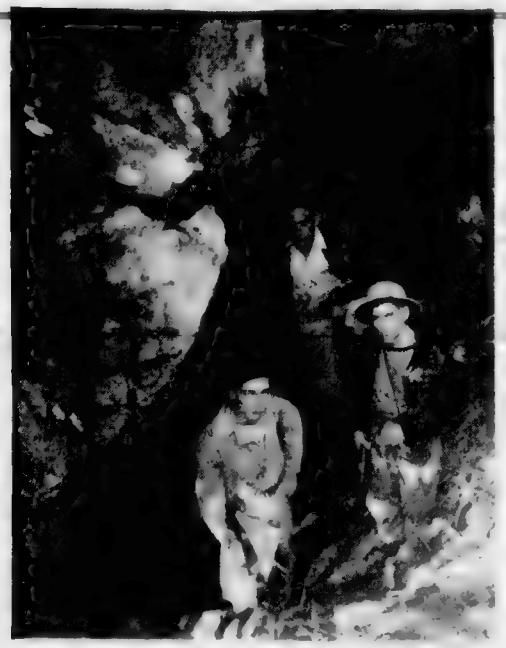
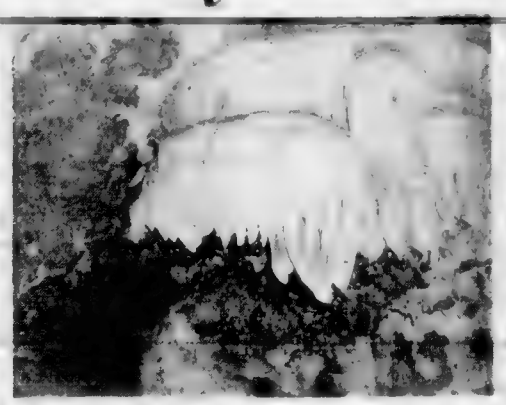
Weird Caves May Attract Tourists



Eventual use of three strange limestone caves near Parksville has not yet been decided. Likened to dungeons drilled by seasonal streams trickling through rock, the three caves could be used as tourist attraction or air raid shelters. At mouth of largest stand Randy, Ray and Vic Phillips.



Situated in private logging property, caves are in cliffs across Heatte Lake. Dead old logs even have long nails. Nothing grows there and no animals enter. Smooth are white stone icicles in main tunnel. Fronts of some of formations reach four or five feet from cavern.

Shining light into one of tunnel's blind alleys is Vic Phillips. Above are ridges of limestone. Beginners of stone stalactites can be seen dripping from roof. Every step must be taken with caution. Floor is as slippery as parquet skewed at responsible. (Colonist photos by Bruce Longridge)

S.P.C.A. Sees Red Over Vivisection

A large group of ardent animal lovers gave a fellow human a pretty rough time last night.

When Vancouver's David Ricardo waded into the annual meeting of the Victoria branch of the S.P.C.A. to speak on vivisection, it was like waving a red flag.

Secretary-manager of the Vancouver branch, Mr. Ricardo was invited to explain the stand of the provincial parent body on increasing use of pound dogs in medical research at the University of B.C.

Before he had spoken two sentences a member cried:

"They ought to cut his throat!"

"We're here because we love animals," Mr. Ricardo cried. "I'm living at this sort of thing," shouted an angry woman.

"Sewer-rected president!" Stewart Evans called for order.

Mr. Ricardo said that use of animals in laboratory experiment is increasing.

"Our job is to get in and see how it is being done. By co-operation with medical research-ers we will achive more than by fighting with them," he said.

He said the S.P.C.A. in Vancouver gave its approval to a proposition where unclaimed dogs left in the city pound would be turned over to the U.B.C. medical school rather than being destroyed in a gas chamber.

Animals will be used anyway, he said, and the best way to help them is in a supervisory capacity.

He said S.P.C.A. members are never to give reasons to students for providing animals.

"We mustn't spend our time fighting the world, but trying to sell our ideas to the medical profession. They're not sadists."

"Bunk!" shouted one irate member.

In rebuttal J. J. Corbin said it was the first time a branch of the S.P.C.A. in North America had "turned animals over to the torturers."

He said he knew that 6,000,000 dogs were butchered in the U.S. every year.

He said he had proof that dog-catchers were provided dogs paid to a certain price per head, and dog-wardens down there threaten and "skin-out cats alive."

A bogus animal welfare organization, with doctors on the board of directors was run by a different tactic to put over this butchery, Mr. Corbin said.

"There is one woman on the board, Mr. Ricardo was told, a Detroit western agent," said Mr. Corbin.

Many members rushed to the front of the hall after the meeting to shake Mr. Ricardo's hand.

"A most enlightening talk," said one woman. Another called him a butcher.

"Absolutely disgusting! Horrible!" she cried.

Hell hath no fury like an anti-vivisectionist scorned, quipped one man.

New Figures Considered

$31,000 Cost Difference Blamed on Chief's Office

A discrepancy of about $31,000 in figures showing cost of the firemen's wage demand to the city has been attributed to a mistake in the fire chief's office.

Using a figure of $113,177 as the cost of the firemen's request to the city, City Manager Cecil Wyatt recently rejected the demands and asked the union representatives to come back with a more moderate schedule.

Meeting Monday with the manager, the firemen claimed the $113,177 figure was all wrong. Total cost, they said, would be only $68,663.

The manager and personnel officer Newton Smith retired to consider the new figure.

Both Mr. Wyatt and Mr. Smith later admitted there was an error but that it had been made in the fire chief's office, not the manager's.

Mr. Smith said last night that the firemen's figure of $68,663 was not entirely correct either. It was extremely difficult to arrive at an exact cost of the asked increases owing to the change in individual pay rates from time to time, he said.

In addition to an over-all 24-cent-an-hour increase on the basic wage, the firemen are requesting certain other benefits, including increased pay for long service.

The negotiations, meanwhile, are stalemated while the costs are being considered.

Winter Blocks Donors, Red Cross Needs Blood

British Columbia's Interior winter has caused an acute shortage in the area's blood banks, and Victoria's Red Cross House will hold a special Feb. 7 clinic to help relieve the situation.

Interior donors could not get out to clinics because of snow-clogged roads, and Victoria's hospitals are faced with a shortage caused when relief shipments drained their supplies.

Red Cross officials hope for at least 400 donors during the day. Clinic hours are from 1.30 to 4.30 p.m. and from 7 to 9.30 p.m.

City Mumps Case Total Swelling Like Victims

Total number of mumps cases [illegible] as victims securely guarded [illegible] was even noticeably during [illegible] January.

Month-end totals showed that [illegible] cases of the disease have been reported compared to 127 in December, 1951, and 136 in [illegible].

[illegible]

The January figure brings the total since last October to 448 cases, about 600 more than the same periods in 1950 and 1951.

According to earlier figures about 4 per cent of the reported cases are adults.

Dr. J. L. Gaston, city health officer, said the disease is rarely serious even in adults. He states that although it can be a nuisance it does not harm.

In addition, the health department has reported the number of chicken pox cases has decreased. Last week 19 cases were reported, two weeks before, only 21.

Local Legs Stand Firm Against Pipestem Pants

By BRUD DELANY

Vancouver Island Beau Brummels can stop worrying about the fearsome reports from London's Savile Row that soon the well-dressed man will be wearing pipe-stem pants.

A canvass of leading men's furnishing shops yesterday resulted in a general denial of Tailor and Cutter's high-browed dictum that men may have to go barefoot to climb into their new narrow-style trousers.

"It just isn't so," was the general reaction of city retailers when they heard what the British trade journal had to say in its December issue.

Trousers are no longer garments which you can don with your boots on. Now it is not only necessary to be barefooted, but it is requisite to paint the toe also as you slide down the essentially narrow cylinders."

Ald. Brent Murdoch who deals in men's finery as well as city council problems says there is little danger of such a development.

"The moderate drape of a 24 inch knee and a 19 or 20-inch cuff has been with us for quite a number of years now and there's no indication of a change.

Men like the comfort and draw room they get from the wide types, he says. Possibly the cuffs may shrink a little but on the whole there's not much to worry about for the next twenty three years.

But, he adds, "There's no denying that we could get used to it. All new styles look strange at first."

London tailors echo this view. They say ready-to-narrow trousers will be worn by extremely few men. Such Edwardian styles one leading firm said are favored only by men with large wardrobes. And large wardrobes are scarce these days.

Foster Father Ordered To Spring Assizes Trial

WINNIPEG, Feb. 5 (CP) — Gavin McCullough, 51, today was remanded to the May assizes for trial on a charge of murder in the slaying of his seven-year-old foster child, Martha Louise.

Still under treatment for frozen feet, McCullough was carried into the Spring Assizes on a stretcher. His wife, Lillian, 52, also had been charged with murder but is in a psychopathic ward pending a preliminary hearing of the charge.

Chief Justice E. K. Williams, in setting the case over, said he wished to say something "to the press and through the press to the general public and especially to those whose zeal, shall I say, seems to be triumphing over their discretion."

"Gavin McCullough has been committed to this court for trial on the most serious charge known to our criminal law. The charge of murder.

"In the eyes of the law he is presumed to be innocent and will continue to be presumed innocent until the Crown satisfies a jury of his fellow citizens by proper evidence and beyond reasonable doubt that he is guilty."

After repeating the presumption of innocence the chief justice continued "having been committed to this court he is under the protection of the court and that protection he will receive.

"He is entitled to a fair and unprejudiced trial and it is contempt of court to prejudice mankind against persons before their trial.

"The court is always loath to exercise its very wide powers to punish for contempt, but it will not hesitate to do so if it considers it necessary.

"I hope that having drawn attention in this manner, no one will from now on do anything that might prejudice the fair trial of this man when it takes place."

Japanese Object To Terms

TOKYO, Feb. 6 (Wednesday) (INS). — Spokesmen for four major opposition parties today voiced vigorous objections to the proposed terms under which American forces will remain in Japan after the occupation ends.

The details of stationing U.S. security forces in Japan after the peace treaty goes into effect have been under discussion in Tokyo since Jan. 29.

The opposition criticisms came as the Peiping radio blasted the U.S.-Japan administrative agreement now being drafted as "a brutal violation of Japanese sovereign rights and independence, aimed at the enslavement of Japan by the United States."

Japan has earmarked about $180,000,000 to match the $160,000,000 put up by the United States. The American share is in addition to the cost of paying, feeding and equipping the forces at its own expense.

Socialist spokesmen raised the possibility that Japan may be converted into a U.S. atom bomber base. U.S. Ambassador Dean Rusk, heading the American delegation discussing the agreement, has already denied the U.S. has such intentions.

Near-Fatal Wound May Bring New Life

DALLAS, Tex., Feb. 5 (INS). — A four-time convict has a chance today for a new and respectable life because a bullet ripped into his brain with the precision of a surgeon's knife.

Physicians said the pistol slug, fired just over 29-year-old Charles Green's right eye in a West Dallas tavern brawl, performed a crude but effective version of the brain operation known as prefrontal lobotomy.

This operation in which the nerve pathways between the prefrontal lobes and the rest of the brain are severed — sometimes is performed on habitual or vicious criminals.

In many cases it creates a basic change in personality, leaving the patient less alert and intelligent but much calmer, more tractable and normal in behavior.

Canadians Buy Big Citrus Share

Fifteen per cent of the production of citrus fruits in the United States is sold in Canada, which is more per capita than in the U.S., Paul S. Armstrong, general manager of the California Fruit Growers' Exchange at Los Angeles, told the 27th annual convention of the Canadian Fruit Wholesalers' Association yesterday.

Describing the growth of the citrus fruit industry, Mr. Armstrong told 250 delegates that while population of the U.S. had increased 21 per cent between 1930 and 1950, citrus fruit pro-

Uncle Wiggily Story - - -

By Howard Garis

THE BEARS' DEN

Uncle Wiggily the rabbit gentleman and Woodie Chuck the groundhog boy, were walking through the woods together. It was the second day of February which is also called Candlemas Day.

"So you are going out to look for your shadow, are you, Woodie?" asked Uncle Wiggily as he hopped along beside the little groundhog boy.

"Yes, Uncle Wiggily, that's what I'm going to do," Woodie answered. "I am going to look for my shadow and I hope I don't find it."

"I understand what you mean," went on the rabbit uncle. "It is an old story and nearly everyone knows it. Today is supposed to be the middle of winter. You are what is known as a hibernating chap; aren't you, Woodie?"

"That's what I am," answered the woodchuck boy. "It is a big word for a little chap like me, but hibernating means that we groundhogs or woodchucks take a long winter sleep in our dens. We just stay there and do nothing, waiting for spring."

"Don't you ever get hungry?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Do you get hungry when you are asleep, Uncle Wiggily?"

"No, Woodie, I don't. I am so busy sleeping that I don't think of anything to eat until I wake up."

"That's the way with me and other hibernating animals," said Woodie. "In the fall we eat plenty and get very fat. Then, when we go in our dens for the long winter sleep, we are so fat, happy and contented that we don't wake up until around Feb. 2."

"And then, as I remember the story," said Mr. Longears, "you come out of your den to look for your shadow. Isn't that it, Woodie?"

"That's it, Uncle Wiggily. And, as the story has it, if I, or any other groundhog, see my shadow on Candlemas Day, then I get a little scared and I hurry back to my den and stay there in my hibernating sleep for six weeks longer."

"You don't really believe that, do you, Woodie?"

"Not exactly, Uncle Wiggily. I think winter depends on the weather and nothing I can do about my shadow will make winter any longer or shorter. You know the story says that if the day is cloudy and I don't see my shadow I fool around a little. I don't get scared and when I go back to my den, I only stay four weeks instead of six."

"So that spring comes two weeks earlier than if you didn't see your shadow; is that it, Woodie?"

"Did you see our shadow?"

"That's it Uncle Wiggily. I don't really believe the story. But it is cloudy now and I guess the sun will not shine so that I can see my shadow. But I had better wait a little longer, I promised him I would."

"Whom did you promise, Woodie?"

"I promised Mr. Stubtail, the bear. You know in some places the story says woodchucks or groundhogs look for their shadows. In other places the story says it is the bears who look. Here in Woodland we have both bears and groundhogs in the story. My daddy sent me out of our den to look for my shadow. Daddy was supposed to come out and look, but he said he was very sleepy so I said I would go.

"Then, as I was passing the den of Mr. Stubtail, he poked his nose out and said as long as I was going to look for my shadow, would I please come back to his den and tell him whether or not the sun was shining enough to cast his shadow. I said I would. So, after I took a little longer for my shadow I'll go back to the bears' den and tell Mr. Stubtail.

"I'll go with you," offered Mr. Longears. Then he exclaimed: "Oh! Oh! Woodie, The sun is coming out. Did you see your shadow?"

"Yes, I did, Uncle Wiggily. Now I must go to the bears den and tell Mr. Stubtail. But, even though I saw my shadow, I don't believe we shall have six weeks more of winter."

"I don't believe it, either, Woodie," said Mr. Longears. But let's go see Mr. Stubtail." So the two friends went to the bears' den.

And what happened there will be told tomorrow if the little snowball doesn't try to push the big snowball inside the milk bottle so it can hide away from the melting sun.

Culbertson on Bridge - - -

(Copyright, 1952, by Ely Culbertson)

A player who has opened the bidding with a minimum one no-trump should never thereafter take agressive action. It is up to his partner to determine the final contract. In today's deal North profited by breaking this rule, but the profit came from extraordinary luck, not from North's bidding skill.

North dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

♥ A Q 8
♦ K J 6
♣ A J 5

♣ K 4 3

SOUTH
♠ A K 5

♣ 7 6 2

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 N.T.	Pass	3 ♦	Pass
3 N.T.	Pass	5 ♦	Pass
6 ♦	Pass	Pass	Pass

Apparently, North felt that with his partner jumping twice in the diamond suit, his own diamond honors, plus his outside strength, should provide an excellent play for a slam, but if this was his reasoning, it was unsound. The opening no-trump had been a dead minimum, and, indeed, in point-count systems would actually be considered one point light; thus, no matter what responses South made, it was North's duty simply to go along with his partner, without taking any forward action on his own part.

It may seem silly to chide North for his bidding in view of the fact that the slam contract was made, but, to repeat, South had to find and take advantage of an excellent break of cards to bring home 12 tricks.

West opened the club ten. Dummy's ace was played, then South drew two rounds of trumps, cashed his top spades and, of necessity, took the heart finesse. He discarded his low spade on the heart ace, then hopefully ruffed a spade. His hope was realized—the suit broke 3-3, and now he could return to dummy with a trump and cash the established spade for the 12th trick.

Paris Probable N.A.T.O. Site

LONDON, Feb. 5 (CP)—Speculation continued today on whether London or Paris will be chosen as permanent headquarters for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. One newspaper, ranging far afield, put in a plug for Ottawa.

London comment generally is of a defensive nature, wryly resigned to an inevitable victory for the glitter and gaiety of Paris over London's deeper and (say the papers) less superficial attractions. But the Yorkshire Post, stressing that establishing the headquarters in Britain would carry out the original concept of the Atlantic community, clings to a slender hope.

Pre-Immigration Military Service Recommended by Machinists' Union

ON THE LABOR FRONT

Induction of prospective immigrants in the Canadian Army overseas for a three-year period before their arrival in this country is favored by the executive of Machinists, Fitters and Helpers' Union, Local 3 (C.C.L.-C.I.O.) in Victoria.

Induction into the services could be made after suitable adaptability tests have been carried out to determine an immigrant's potentialities as a future Canadian citizen, the executive suggests.

Schooling could include conversion from metric to U.S.-British scale for machinists and artisans. "And as a whole, these people could be more or less indoctrinated into the Canadian way of life under adequate tutors," the executive adds.

"A schooling system could be set up whereby a portion of each day could be devoted to teaching English, democratic idealism, and a general knowledge of our country."

Such teaching, upon the point of immigration, would provide an understanding of their proposed new home, and immigrants would be able to speak English, helping out their employment status immensely, the executive adds.

"Under the system, the government would save a considerable amount by instituting such a method, rather than have an unemployment list in the six-figure bracket."

COSTS DEDUCTED

Immigration costs could be deducted from immigrants' army pay, with an added stipulation that they must save so much toward unemployment insurance to put them on their feet upon arrival in Canada, the executive report continues.

If potential immigrants were found unsuitable for Canada at the end of three years in the army, they could serve an added three years, or if they wished, drop out of the picture altogether.

The executive recommendation points out that "the people of Canada, as a majority, are wholeheartedly behind progress."

"But to impede, retard and totally glut the labor market with an overabundance of people who cannot find their own way is of a certainty a sin," the report concludes.

The cost-of-living clause in contracts of International Woodworkers of America (C.I.O.-C.C.L.) has netted I.W.A. members increases amounting to 14 cents an hour during the past year. Eleven cents was added to basic wages when the June index was released and three cents will be added to pay cheques soon, retroactive to Jan. 1, following Monday's release of the December index.

The cost-of-living bonus was based upon one cent for each 1.3 rise in the index.

George Mitchell, district secretary of the I.W.A., will install new officers of Local 1-118, Victoria, next Monday.

The meeting also will elect delegates to a wage and contract conference in March, as well as hear reports on the B.C. Federation of Labor convention.

The great majority of physically-handicapped workers equal or surpass plant production records of the physically fit.

This was disclosed in a survey by the National Employment Service. A total of 2,315 handicapped persons were checked in 467 firms in 48 centres across Canada.

[illegible] 3,003 or 85.6 per cent equalled or surpassed production records of the physically fit. And 2,123 or 91.7 per cent had an equal or better attendance record, and 2,273 (98.2 per cent) had an equal, or lower, accident rate.

The various disabilities noted in the survey included hearing, heart, orthopaedic, chest, visual, multiple handicaps and stomach.
